BILLS ON TARIFF THREATEN LIFE OF REVISION BOARD

Taft Forced to Give Blow to Body Demanded by People or Veto Several Measures.

WANTS FACTS ON ISSUE

Progressives, by Forcing Action, Oppose Move Which They Urged at First.

REFUSES TO PLAY "POLITICS."

BY JOHN CALLAN O'LAUGHLIN.

Washington, D. C., July 30.—In the view of the administration the existence of the tariff board is threatened by the tariff legislation congress is expected to pass.

It is this fact which inclines the president to veto the wool and other tariff schedule bills which the combination of progressives and Democrats has selected for enactment. The tariff board represents a reform the people demanded. Through it they expected to take the tariff out of politics and prevent the outrageous log rolling which has been of such a large advantage to the interests.

The tariff board was to make an investigation of every schedule and to institute comparisons between the foreign and domestic costs, and its reports were to serve as the bases for a scientific revision of the schedules. The board was made nonpartisan by President Taft and its Republican and Democratic members have worked in harmony in the prosecution of the investigations they have undertaken.

Refuse to Await Facts.

Without waiting for a report from the board, the Democrats of the house passed the wool bill and a combination of progressives and Democrats put a bill of this kind through the senate. The divergent rates which these two measures contain will be harmonized by a conference committee and the result, approved by both houses, will be presented to the president for his action. A similar course will be taken with respect to the so-called farmers' free list bill, which will be passed on Tuesday, and a cotton schedule bill.

From the point of view of the president it would be a comparatively simple matter for him to approve the wool bill, for example, and thus share in the political advantage which it is anticipated will accrue from an attack on schedule K.

The president himself has said that this schedule was "indefensible." The facts in connection with this schedule which have been collected by the tariff board have confirmed him in this view.

Wants to Wait for Data.

But these facts are meagre in comparison with those which will be at hand by the time congress reassembles in December. The same situation exists with respect to the cotton schedule.

If the president were to approve the wool and cotton bills, passed during the present session, his action, he is understood to believe, would be a blow at the tariff board from which it probably never would recover. For personal political advantage he would bring to naught the zealous labors of a governmental body created solely for the purpose of dealing with this subject. He would say, in effect, that the board was of no value, that the reform for which the people worked was one unworthy of existence and that the good old time of tariff log rolling should be restored.

Germany and Austria realized, years back, that science should be applied to tariff revision. They organized boards to this end. The result today is that these countries have tariffs which operate to the best interests of the country as a whole.

Change by the Progressives.

The Democrats consistently opposed a tariff board. The progressives earnestly advocated a tariff commission with comprehensive powers. The tariff board was the compromise. This board is not satisfactory to the progressives, but it is at least a step forward. The administration thinks it strange that the progressives should take any action inimical to the reform for which they fought.

Under the circumstances, the president does not feel that he can abandon the tariff board. This means he will veto the tariff bills which it is proposed to pass. Next December he will incorporate, in his annual message, the findings of the board with respect to the wool and cotton schedule.

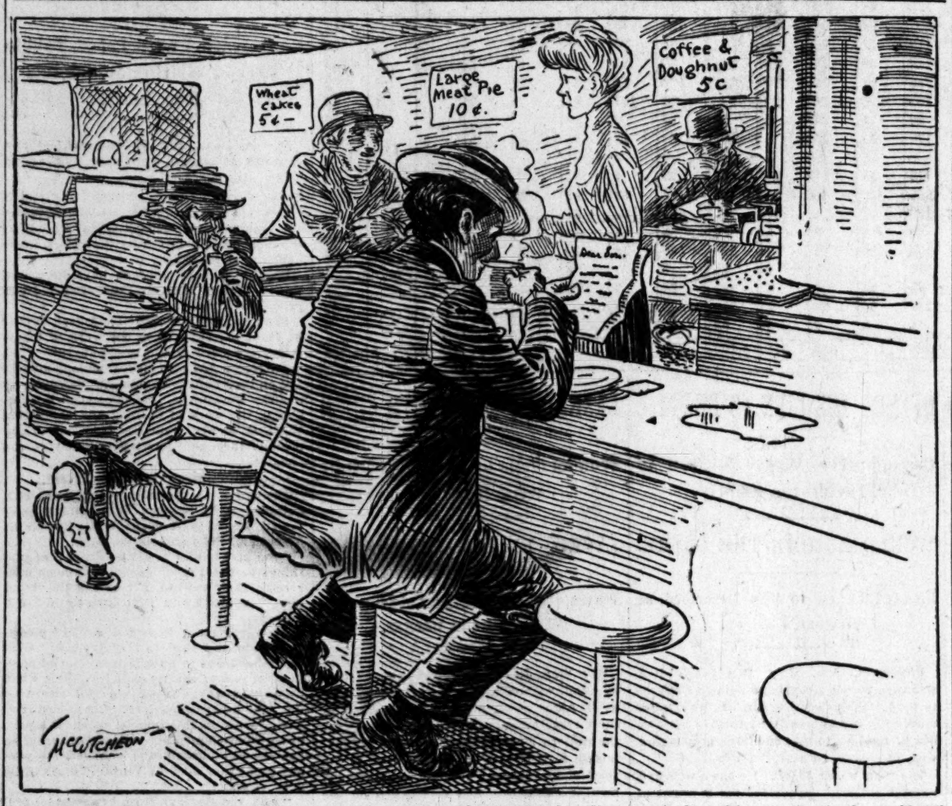

Between now and then is a period of only four months. Is it advisable, the administration asks, to ask a revision of these schedules now when, by waiting only a short time, there will be available comprehensive data which will insure a proper and satisfactory revision and avoid the mistakes which it is suggested must necessarily be included in the legislation, not intentionally, but because of a lack of information?

Not Revision by Schedule.

Another reason influencing the president's attitude toward the pending legislation lies in his view that the revision being attempted is not revision schedule by schedule. Take the farmers' free list bill, for example. A great many items have been and will be included in this measure which will represent a trading of votes.

This also is true of the wool bill, since the Democrats of the senate abandoned the bill passed by the Democratic house and accepted the La Follette substitute in order to get something through the senate. The president is making no criticism of Mr. La Follette for the course he pursued. He realizes he himself was forced to depend largely upon Democratic votes to obtain the passage of the Canadian reciprocity agreement. Mr. La Follette has merely done the same thing with reference to the wool bill.

DAWSON '11—FORTUNE HUNTER—NO. 8.

Dear Mother: Your welcome letter with the money arrived just before dinner yesterday, although what in the world you sent it for I can't imagine. I hope you haven't got the impression from my letters that I needed any. But that's just you, mother, all over—always denying yourself for us kids. I suppose it's a habit by this time, and you'll always go on thinking of me as a little boy instead of a grownup. But you mustn't send me any more, for I know how much you need it at home, and instead of you sending me money I ought to be sending some to you. It makes me feel a little ashamed, as though you thought I was not making good up here. I'll keep the ten for the present, however, although I'm going to prove before long that your investment of twenty-one years of unselfishness in Son Charley will bring you a rich reward. I'll refuse to compromise on less than a thousand per cent interest in cash and a million per cent in love, in proof of which I hereby send you a large installment of the latter and hope soon to send some of the former.

I've had some funny experiences in the last two weeks—you'll laugh when you hear them. I've answered about forty-leven ads, but always found that somebody else had got the job just before I arrived, thus proving that you've got to get there early. At one place the choice narrowed down to two of us, and I think I'd have got the place, but the other fellow was married, had two children, and had been out of work for three months. I withdrew in his favor and he got the job. He needed it more than I did, and his gratitude was worth the temporary loss of my meal ticket. Another ad that I answered was at a large business place. When I got there the boss was in a towering rage and wouldn't be bothered with me. One of the clerks told me that the old man had just got his tax assessment and they had raised him from $12,000 to $15,000. The clerk said his collection of paintings alone was worth $200,000, and I decided that my rich friend must be a gigantic liar at least. I don't want to work for such a man. I'd rather go back home and work in the livery stable. I also called upon a prominent philanthropist to lay before him a proposition whereby I was to be allowed to ornament his pay roll. He gives hundreds of thousands of dollars to charity every year or so, and when I heard that he pays some of his girl employés only five a week I decided he wasn't good enough for me.

I'm sometimes doubtful whether I can adjust my ideals to the practical necessities of the situation up here, but I'm going to keep on trying, at least, for a while, anyway. So don't be discouraged. Keep a stiff upper lip. When I do get a job it will be something neither of us will be ashamed of, whether it pays very much or not.

I have moved to a little boarding house and have a room with a window. I eat at restaurants, spend my time after banking hours in the public library, and am giving a theater party for myself tonight at the moving picture show. O, this is a delirious life, surrounded by wealth and luxury, but so far I have not contracted any of the expensive vices of the idle rich. I have organized the rest of the boarders into a Seeing Chicago club. They've elected me president. Each Saturday afternoon we shall go on excursions, and in the winter we'll have debates and readings. Am inclosing a poem I copied from one of the books in the library; I thought you'd enjoy it.

Give my love to the old fashioned hammock that hangs in the trees, and with oceans of love to all of you. CHARLEY.

P. S.—This is the time of year when everybody wishes he had a vacation and didn't have to work, so you see I'm in a somewhat enviable position.

Washington, D. C., July 30.—Showers and continued seasonable temperatures will feature the weather generally throughout the country the coming week, according to the weather bureau. The weekly forecast, issued today, says:

"The general barometric pressure distribution shown by the international weather chart is such as to indicate that there will be no unseasonably high temperatures the coming week in any part of the country except possibly the extreme southwest and the interior of the South Pacific states. Fairly well distributed precipitation is probable during the week in all districts from the Rocky mountains eastward to the Atlantic coast.

"A barometric depression that is over the northwest will advance slowly eastward and be attended by local showers the first part of the week from the Mississippi valley eastward. Another disturbance, which promises to be attended by general showers, will appear in the northwest about Wednesday and move eastward, crossing the central valleys, Thursday or Friday, and the Atlantic states at the end of the week. This disturbance will be followed by considerably cooler weather in all middle and northern states from the Rocky mountains to the Atlantic states."

FRANK T. BROWN LASHED BY WOMAN

Person Known as His Wife in West Chicago Beats Him in Street Before Crowd

3 WOMEN IN HIS CART.

Frank T. Brown of Brown & Hopkins, patent attorneys, was horsewhipped by a woman at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon before a crowd of twenty people in West Chicago. The wielder of the whip was known in town as Mrs. Brown.

The woman made the attack while infuriated at the sight of three young women driving in the lawyer's trap to his country home on the Northwestern. Brookmere farm. Before striking the attorney she lashed one of the women across the face.

Apparently the women had gone there on the Chicago & Aurora electric. Mrs. Brown, unknown to Mr. Brown, went on the same train over the Chicago & Northwestern with him. He started walking from the station, intending to take a short cut across the fields to the farm.

Stops Rig; Lashes Woman.

Before starting, however, Brown waited around the station for a few minutes, which gave his supposed wife a chance to get ahead of him. She walked about four blocks up Joliet street, a residence road, where she encountered the farm's private trap, driven by Ray Rogers, the Brown coachman.

The woman ordered Brown to stop the team. He pretended not to hear her, and the woman dashed across the road, planted herself in front of the horses, and grabbed them by the bits.

"Now, you get down off the seat in a hurry!" she commanded the coachman.

He started to descend and when he was half way down the woman pulled the whip out of his hand. Giving him one contemptuous flick across the shoulders, she reached out with the long lash and snapped it across the face of the woman in the front seat. The woman screamed, and at this crucial moment Brown appeared around a corner.

First Uses Her Fist.

"So this is where you were going to meet them!" exclaimed Mrs. Brown.

"My dear, my dear," Mr. Brown began breathlessly. He got no further. Mrs. Brown lowered the whip just long enough to punch him viciously with her fist; then, whirling the lash around once more, cut him again and again across the mouth. In the struggle he got the whip away from her, but only for a moment. When she regained it he turned and fled down the road.

Brown finally turned and started running again. Mrs. Brown pursued a few yards. Stripping off his coat, he threw it back in her face, turned his own head toward the farm, and ran like the wind.

At midnight Mrs. Frank T. Brown denied that she had assaulted her husband. She said at her residence, 4200 Hazel avenue, that she had not been in West Chicago during the day. She said that if her husband had been publicly whipped by a woman the assault was committed by some one who has posed in the suburb as Mrs. Brown.

HIGH BIDDER SELLS FLOUR TO COUNTY; LOW PRICE IGNORED

John M. Glenn of Illinois Manufacturers' Association Scores Board.

BARTZEN LETTERS SHOWN

Specifications Not Followed, It Is Said, in Letting Big Contract for Institutions.

"BAKING TEST" OFFICIALS' DEFENSE

Charges that the county board has awarded a contract for three months' supply of flour for county institutions to the highest bidder and that the specifications were not followed were made yesterday by John M. Glenn, secretary of the Illinois Manufacturers' association.

Mr. Glenn made public letters which had passed between himself and Peter Bartzen, president of the county board.

The contract was awarded to N. G. Conybear & Co., wholesale grocers of Chicago. Mr. Glenn asserts that two other well known milling companies submitted bids from 35 to 40 cents a barrel less than the price at which the contract was awarded. These companies submitted their bids in accordance with the specifications, Mr. Glenn says, but the contract was awarded to the highest bidder.

In his letter Mr. Bartzen, Mr. Glenn scored the board for irregularities in the awarding of the contract.

Glenn Scores Board.

"Your departure from the specifications and the rules for awarding contracts to the lowest responsible bidders," wrote Mr. Glenn, "adopted about twenty years ago as the result of a scandal in connection with questionable work of the county board, at which time some of the members of the board were indicted, convicted, and sentenced to Joliet, may again lead to irregularities and scandal in connection with letting contracts for the county supplies to the highest bidder instead of the lowest."

Mr. Bartzen replied that the Conybear company was awarded the contract because its flour proved the most satisfactory in a baking test. He asserted the baking test is the only satisfactory test. Mr. Glenn insisted that this test was not in accordance with the advertisement and specifications for proposals for providing flour.

"The only satisfactory test on flour is the baking test," said Mr. Bartzen, in a letter to Mr. Glenn. "We caused loaves of bread to be baked from the various samples submitted at the county hospital and at the Oak Forest infirmary. Mr. Moir also had loaves baked by his baker at the Boston Oyster house. It was after careful examination of these samples that the award was made."

Mr. Glenn maintains that Mr. Bartzen's explanation does not explain and he told him so in a letter.

Baking Test Not Specified.

Referring to the baking test, he said:

"There is nothing in the specifications whatever that provides that the flour shall be tested by Mr. Henry C. Moir, proprietor of the Morrison hotel and the Boston Oyster house, and hence your reference to him is wholly irrelevant and immaterial."

Mr. Bartzen replied: "Any one well informed concerning the flour market will tell you that the prices paid by the county for the Gold Medal flour are the lowest that were obtainable at the time the contract was awarded, and considerably lower than the same flour can be purchased for at the present time."

This is the way Mr. Glenn came back in answer to Mr. Bartzen's statement regarding the price of this specific flour:

"What has your statement to do with the fact that at least two well known milling companies' bids were from 35 to 40 cents per barrel less than the price at which you awarded the contract to Conybear & Co. You fail to answer this question.

"Standard Brands" Offered Cheaper.

"The milling companies whose bids were lower than that submitted by Conybear & Co. manufacture 'standard brands' of high grade and hard spring wheat patent flour, well known all over the country, and have for many years supplied the county whenever they were the lowest bidders with their well known brands of patent flour."

In his reply to Mr. Glenn, Mr. Bartzen wrote:

"I might say, for your information, that on flour delivered by the W. M. Hoyt company for the period between Sept. 1 and Nov. 30, 1910, we were obliged to make deductions of $456.38 by reason of an inferior grade having been delivered than the samples submitted, also, during the period between Dec. 1, 1910, and Feb. 28, 1911, we deducted from the Durand & Kasper company $363.78 for the same reason. I therefore personally favor the purchase of standard brands in original sacks."

Shows Bartzen "Inconsistency."

Regarding these deductions made in the past, Mr. Glenn said:

"We can hardly see how this justified letting the contract to the highest instead of the lowest bidder. If any contractor fails in the delivery of any goods purchased for the county, it was incumbent upon the county to see to it that the deliveries by the contractor were in every way equal and up to the sample submitted at the time the contract was let.

"You also say that you are personally in favor of purchasing standard brands in original package. At least two of the bidders were well known milling companies who manufacture the highest grade of standard brands of flour, and their bids were as stated, 35 to 40 cents lower than the price at which you gave the contract to Conybear & Co., and therefore there is an inconsistency between your statements and your action which you fail to explain."

BOY CONFESSES HE KILLED COUSIN

16 Year Old Says He Fired Shotgun at Two Youths as They Clambered in Window in Play.

BROTHER SHIELDS HIM.

Hides Tale of Tragedy of "Insane Fourth" at Lake Zurich Until Slayer Yields to Father.

A belated confession made by a sixteen-year-old boy, who had outwitted a coroner's jury and a half dozen detectives, yesterday cleared a mystery surrounding the death of Elmer Schafer, victim of an "insane Fourth" at Lake Zurich this year.

George Jorgensen, a cousin of the Schafer boy, who was 12 years old, made the confession. Taken on a visit to the scene of the tragedy—the Schafer residence at Lake Zurich—Jorgensen broke down. He told how he had fired a shotgun point blank at Elmer Schafer and Fred Jorgensen, his brother.

"I killed him," said the boy. "I didn't mean to, and yet it wasn't an accident. I just pointed the gun at the boys, and somehow or other I pulled the trigger. That's all."

Father Accompanies Son.

It was on the theory that solitary environment would accomplish what Coroner Taylor of Lake county and his aids had failed to do that the boy was taken to the village where he spent the tragic Fourth. His father, heart-heavy but resolute, accompanied him.

Fred, whose left eye was blinded by the same load that killed Elmer, and who persistently has corroborated the denial heretofore made by his brother, did not go with the party, and George, deprived of his fraternal support, lost much of his self-confidence.

Father and son went to the room where the shooting ostensibly had occurred and for a time sat together in silence.

"George," said the elder Jorgensen at length, "you had better tell me everything."

With his eyes downcast, the boy obeyed, and admitted that the tale by which he and his brother had lessened the suspicions of the coroner and the police was false.

"We were alone in the house—we three boys," he said. "I did shoot Elmer, and when I said he shot Fred and then shot himself, I lied. Fred lied, too, to shield me.

Shot to Keep Boys from Room.

"I was alone in a room when I saw the gun. The younger boys tried to get in. I held the door against them. Then they went around to the window. I heard them climbing up as I pointed the gun at the sill. When their heads showed I just pulled the trigger and let them have it. I didn't stop to think whether the gun was loaded or not.

"There were no neighbors near enough to hear the report of the gun. Blood was streaming down Fred's face and made me realize what I had done. Elmer fell back to the ground. Fred was brave and he helped me carry Elmer into the house. Fred and I decided what we were going to say, and we have stuck to it since."

Patch Up Expert Story Quickly.

In the few brief minutes that the boys took to patch up their story, they accomplished as much as an unscrupulous criminal lawyer could at a secret consultation with a guilty client. When George rushed to the residence of a neighbor to say that his brother and Elmer were shot and that Elmer was either unconscious or dead, the brothers were prepared to tell a fictitious story that would compare almost word for word one with another.

At the inquest, although there was an incriminating flaw in the narrative, they succeeded in baffling their questioners.

They were not permitted to hear statements made by each other before the coroner's jury, but they displayed no nervousness. Questions were answered promptly and frankly, apparently.

"Elmer was in the room and Fred and I started to join him," George told the jurors. "Elmer had the gun and he fired it. He hit Fred. Then the gun went off again and my cousin fell. Fred was hurt, but he went with me while we got help."

Only once did George show emotion under fire. At that time he was attending the funeral of his cousin, and suddenly became hysterical.

GREAT WEALTH A BURDEN, JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER ADMITS.

Declares Truth of Sermon of Pastor in Cleveland Church That Likens Crown of Riches to That of Kings.

Cleveland, O., July 30.—[Special.]—John D. Rockefeller admitted today that great wealth was a burden that destroyed the real zest of life and banished peace from the heart. He confessed it to the Rev. Carter Helm Jones of Oklahoma City, following the latter's sermon at the morning services of the Euclid Avenue Baptist church. Dr. Jones was supplying the pulpit in the absence of the regular pastor, the Rev. W. W. Bustard.

"The coronation crowns of kings are all too heavy," said Dr. Jones in his sermon. "This is evidenced in royalty throughout Europe. In like manner the crown of wealth is much too burdensome. In fact, it is so heavy that all who wear it complain of its weight and eventually find that its burden takes the real satisfaction out of life and banishes peace from the heart."

"That was one of the best sermons I have ever heard in my life," said Mr. Rockefeller to the minister at the conclusion of the service. "Your words were full of solemn truth, indeed. I was deeply interested."

DIGGING FOR BURIED MINER.

Hundred Men Seek to Reach Victim of Cavein, Caught Many Feet Below Earth's Surface.

Joplin, Mo., July 30.—[Special.]—One hundred men were working desperately in an effort to sink a shaft to the drift of the White Coal mine in which Joseph Clary, aged 21, is held a prisoner by caving ground. As days must elapse before the shaft can reach the mine workings, which are seventy feet deep, a prospect drill is sinking a six inch hole which will let ventilation into the drift and through which food and drink can be lowered.

TARIFF REVISION WANTED BY WEST; POLL OF EDITORS

Great Majority Ask Immediate Change in Most Schedules of Payne-Aldrich Law.

FAVOR WIDE FREE LIST

Necessities Made Special Request by Many Who Answer Queries Sent by "Tribune."

OTHER ARTICLES ARE INCLUDED

Revision of the Payne-Aldrich tariff is demanded by the west.

This is demonstrated by the responses of more than 4,000 editors in twenty-two states, from Ohio to California, to questions sent out by THE TRIBUNE. An overwhelming majority of those who answered expressed themselves in favor of a "general revision" of the tariff. Many more went on record as favoring a revision "schedule by schedule" or "by a tariff commission," and another group objected to a "general revision" or to any revision "at this time," but pointed out specific things they felt should be changed in the tariff.

Less than one-sixth of those who answered "stood pat" on the present law.

QUESTIONS WHICH WERE SENT.

The questions were sent out in the shape of a printed ballot, bearing the following questions:

Are you in favor of a general revision of the tariff?

What articles do you think should be on the free list?

Of the 10,000 newspapers which received ballots, 4,189 responded.

The following is the result of the poll:

For general revision	2,833
Against general revision	685
For revision by the tariff commission	348
Qualified replies	319

SOME OF ANSWERS INDEFINITE.

This table shows that 2,838 voted "Yes" and 685 voted "No." Others, 667 in number, qualified their answers so that they could not be placed definitely in either of the first two classes.

More than half of this number, however, fell naturally into a certain definite classification and might be known as "schedule by schedule" revisionists, "piecemeal" revisionists, or "tariff commission" revisionists. These numbered 348.

The remaining 319 qualified their answers in such a way as to indicate they were not in favor of a "general revision" at present, but either intimated or specifically indicated their belief that some changes should be made in the Payne-Aldrich schedules.

SOME OF VARIOUS ANSWERS.

A type of the answers placed in the fourth classification is found in that of a Nebraska editor who replied "No" to question No. 2 and answered question No. 3 as follows:

"Meats, breadstuffs, sugar, salt, iron, steel, coal, oil, wire, glass, paper, lumber, leather, shoes, cotton fabrics, agricultural implements, ships, tin, tinware. About 30 per cent reduction on wool."

Another type of answer, which it was felt should not go under either "Yes" or "No," was the following:

"Yes, by a Republican congress."

Other answers in this class were:

"Not until the next regular session."

"No, Congress might revise it upward instead of downward."

"Moderately."

"As a general proposition, in my opinion, a high tariff has meant greater prosperity. Why, I don't know. Yet in principle I think a high tariff wrong. The matter should be taken out of politics."

"I believe in a protective tariff, but, like most people, know nothing about it."

Such answers as these went to make up the 319 answers in the fourth class.

GREAT MAJORITY FOR REVISION.

It is notable that in every state except Wyoming those flatly in favor of a general revision of the tariff not only outnumbered those flatly opposed from 2 to 1 to 10 to 1 but they outnumbered the combined forces of those unqualifiedly opposed and those who limited their opposition or assent.

Colorado, Minnesota and Wisconsin are the states that report the most vigorous demand for general revision. Illinois shows more than four to one in favor, and the same proportion is shown among the editors of Indiana. In Iowa, Michigan and Kansas the vote is a little less than three to one for revision.

The ballots were sent out to all newspapers, daily and weekly, without regard to politics, and the response showed that politics was not a controlling factor in the matter. Democratic papers were found lined up against revison and Republican papers in favor of it.

A large proportion of those who replied in the affirmative could not forbear to strengthen their approval of further tariff revision by such phrases as: "Decidedly," "Of course," "You bet," "Sure." Many wrote letters to accompany their ballots denouncing the efforts of the Payne-Aldrich tariff and urging many reasons for its revision. Some hundreds of them felt it necessary to qualify their answer "Yes" by another word in capitals, underlined, and followed by exclamation points. That word was "DOWNWARD!" Nor were they Democrats alone who expressed themselves thus.

MANY URGE FREE LIST.

In answer to the question about articles to be placed on the free list, wide differences of opinion developed. The result of the poll was as follows:

Suggest changes in free list	2,939
Oppose any change	329
Failed to give details	922

The most common suggestions in regard to additions to the free list were as follows:

All articles that do not compete with American industries	279
Articles made by monopolies and trusts	518
Necessaries	605
All not luxuries	57
Everything possible	180

TRANSPLANTING OF ORGANS MAY LEAD TO "REMADE" MAN.

Tests at Harvard Foreshadow Great Advance in Surgery—Mice Used in Cancer Research.

Boston, Mass., July 30.—[Special.]—The surgical re-making of suffering men, women and children may become as common as blood transfusions, in view of experiments being carried on at Harvard Medical school, following out the ideas of Dr. Alexis Carrel of the Rockefeller institute. That vital organs may be transplanted from man to animals has been established by Dr. Carrel, and his work in the delicate task of growing organic tissues after they have been removed from the body of which they were a part has been repeated at the Harvard school.

Tissues of a tumor taken from a mouse have been made to grow after having been placed in a serum or natural plasm. Dr. E. E. Tyzzer of the Harvard school is a member of the cancer commission, and has specialized in observing the growth of cancer tissue in mice. It has long been expected the artificial growing of this tissue and its transfer from one mouse to another will yet make clear the secrets of this disease, with a view to its prevention and cure.

SUFFRAGISTS ARE SEXLESS, SAYS ONE PSYCHOLOGIST.

Dr. Schlapp of Columbia Declares Political Activity of Women Will Result in Danger to Nation.

New York, July 30.—"Suffragists are to a large extent sexless," declared Dr. Max G. Schlapp, professor in the Columbia College Medical school and one of the most eminent medical psychologists in the country today. "They fail to realize the duties of womanhood and seem to lose their womanly qualities," he added. "In this stressful age, we are getting fewer and fewer womanly women.

"If women would only leave this political field alone, we would have a much more satisfactory generation of children. The increase in female suffrage is doing the race harm, and few of us realize how much. This I assert on scientific grounds."

HALF OF THE CANADIAN NAVY, FLAGSHIP NIOBE, IN A WRECK.

Ship Crashes on Ledges of Cape Sable, but Floats Five Hours Later, Leaking Badly.

Halifax, N. S., July 30.—Half of the strength of the new Canadian navy was menaced early today when the flagship Niobe, thrashed by a heavy sea, crashed on the ledges of Cape Sable.

Five hours later it floated, leaking badly, and proceeded under its own power to Shag Harbor, ten miles away, where it is at anchor. The first to reach the side of the disabled cruiser was the United States revenue cutter Androscoggin, which was cruising in the vicinity. The American ship offered aid, but the Niobe found it was able to take care of itself.

Another Piece of Art from Walls of Reno Office Thrown In to Make Good Bargain.

Reno, Neb., July 30.—The furnishings of the Nat C. Goodwin company were sold at auction yesterday, closing out the career of the actor as broker partner of George Graham Rice. Among the articles placed on the block was a large portrait of the actor. One man bid 25 cents for it. Finally the bid reached 50 cents, and, with the addition of a second portrait, the picture brought 75 cents.

BEGIN BIG FIGHT FOR RECIPROCITY

Greatest Contest in Canada's History Started by Statements of Leaders.

LAURIER LAUDS COMPACT.

R. L. Borden, Head of Opposition, Says He Welcomes Appeal to People.

Ottawa, July 30.—[Special.]—The biggest political fight in Canada's history—the election to determine the fate of reciprocity with the United States—began tonight in the form of statements issued by the rival leaders, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the premier, and R. L. Borden, leader of the opposition.

The question at issue is not a new one, Sir Wilfrid asserts, reciprocal relations with the United States having been sought by both parties for over half a century. The present Conservative party, he declared, is seeking to reverse this lifelong policy of its leaders of the past.

The enactment of the agreement, the premier predicts, would improve the friendly relations existing between Great Britain, Canada, and the United States, and would be an important factor in bringing about a general treaty of arbitration.

Just What Has Been Wanted.

After referring to the history of various attempts by all political parties in Canada to get reciprocity, Sir Wilfrid continues:

"The present agreement between the United States and Canada was fought in the United States, but the view that it was mutually advantageous to both countries finally prevailed in congress, and the agreement stands today as an offer by the United States to Canada of that very measure of reciprocity which for more than forty years has engaged the earnest and constant efforts of every leading Canadian statesman."

Laurier Scores the Opposition.

Sir Wilfrid, commenting on the attitude assumed by the opposition in the present campaign, says:

"Such pretenses are simply a clumsy attempt to give some color to unwarranted and undignified obstruction. To overcome that obstruction after a session which has already lasted eight months, would not only mean the continuation of an unseemly spectacle presented by the opposition in the house of commons since the resumption of its sittings on the 18th instant, but would also mean weeks and months of wasted time and perhaps, in the end, the loss for this season to the Canadian producer of the free American market.

Why Election Was Called.

"In this condition of things, it has seemed more in accordance with the dignity of parliament, with the traditions of those British institutions which all true Canadians value so highly and which the present opposition degrade with such a light heart; with the best interests of the country as a whole, to remit the issue to the people themselves, so that the people may judge between the government and the opposition and declare whether they have changed their mind or whether they still are in favor of reciprocity in natural products, and whether they will or will not have the American market for the promising crop soon to be garnered in Canada."

The address declares there is no warrant for the claim that reciprocity will lead to annexation, and states Canada will continue the policy of British preference.

Borden Welcomes the Fight.

R. L. Borden in his statement declares the government apparently "decided upon the dissolution of parliament in a hurry or even in a panic, as they gave no intimation to the many members who are accustomed to spend the week end with their families and who left Friday without the courtesy of a notice."

"The Conservative party welcomes an appeal upon reciprocity," Mr. Borden asserts. "The president of the United States has more than once emphasized the fact that Canada is today at the parting of the ways. These two ways lead in divergent directions. The choice of the people will be fraught with momentous consequences to the future destiny of the country. It is right and just that they should speak because with them rests the ultimate decision."

JOSEPH W. SLAYTON IS DEAD; SUCCUMBS TO HEART ATTACK.

Dies in Evanston Home After Return from Auto Ride—News Recalls His Daughter from Pleasure Trip.

Joseph W. Slayton, treasurer and general manager of the Mears-Slayton Lumber company, and president of the Retail Lumber Dealers' association of Chicago, died at his home, 1553 Oak avenue, Evanston, last Saturday night. Shortly after returning from an automobile ride he complained of pain in the region of the heart. Two physicians were called but Mr. Slayton died twenty minutes later.

News of his death was sent to Miss Jane Slayton, who had started for Philadelphia in the morning for a month's stay at Ocean City. The message reached her aboard train and she is expected to arrive home this evening. Funeral arrangements will not be announced until her return.

Mr. Slayton, who was 52 years old, had been in poor health for several months. He had been treated for kidney trouble and Bright's disease and was thought to be improving. His condition was not regarded as serious. Surviving him are the widow, a son, Collins H. Slayton, and two daughters, Mrs. A. N. Brown and Miss Slayton. The family has lived in Evanston for eight years. Mr. Slayton was a member of the Chicago Athletic association, the Edgewater Golf club and of the Lake View lodge and Lincoln Park chapter of the Masonic order.

HUNTS FOR FACTS ON 'JACKPOT'

Lorimer Committee Will Investigate Corruption in Legislature.

"BATHROOM BOB" WITNESS.

White and Beckemeyer Also Will Be Summoned to Stand.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., July 30.—[Special.]—The senate Lorimer investigating committee will search this week into the corruption that existed in Springfield during the legislative session of 1909.

The first witness will be Edward O. Phillips, one of the reporters who covered the session for the Chicago Record-Herald and subsequently for THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

Among the other witnesses will be "Bathroom Bob" Wilson, Charles A. White, and H. J. C. Beckemeyer. Wilson will be examined sharply with reference to his visit to St. Louis on July 15, 1909, where he met Representatives Beckemeyer, Luke, Shepherd, Link, Clark, and White at the Southern hotel.

Wilson Will Deny All.

According to reports he will stand by the statement made to the former senate committee that the reason he went to St. Louis and met the men named was to arrange for a banquet for Lee O'Neil Browne. He will deny that he acted as paymaster on that occasion and deny he paid a dollar to any of the men whom he saw.

White is expected to tell the whole story of the corruption at Springfield as the people of Illinois know it. Beckemeyer also is expected to repeat the testimony he gave before the first senate committee.

These witnesses will be put through a strict examination to establish whether or not they are telling the truth. The way in which they conduct themselves undoubtedly will have a large influence in determining the verdict of the committee.

Lumbermen Also to Talk.

The committee expects that Robert J. Shields of Superior, Wis., who ran about Canada and the United States finding witnesses for Edward Hines and his brother-in-law, C. F. Wiehe, will appear for examination. His partner, a Mr. Harper, has been subpoenaed, and probably will be able to give the committee some information as to Mr. Shields' operations.

If Mr. Shields should not appear, his failure to do so will be construed to his disadvantage, and particularly to that of the men who employed him. Mr. Shields ought to be able to tell the committee whether or not he refreshed the memory of the witnesses who testified they did not hear Wiehe boast to William Burgess on the Winnipeg flyer last March that he put up $10,000 as a part of the Lorimer expense fund.

It is believed Mr. Shields will be able to throw a good deal of light upon this feature of the case.

BROADWAY HERMIT DIES AT 88; BITTER ENEMY OF RELIGION.

Spaniard for Thirty Years Seldom Left Hotel Room—Traveled in Many Lands—Never Learned English.

New York, July 30.—[Special.]—Manuel Martinez, a Spaniard, who lived the life of a hermit in Broadway, died today at the age of 88, in his room at the Broadway Central hotel, where he lived for thirty years. He spoke to few people and seldom left his room, and he never learned English. Most of his time he spent reading. He had two nephews in New York, who were with him when he died.

Martinez had been ill since June and refused to see a doctor. He was bitter toward religion and as he grew older his hatred of it became an obsession. He left his home in Granada at the age of 16 and traveled in many parts of the world. Thirty-five years ago he assumed a banking business left by a brother, but after five years withdrew, and, with books as his only companions, took up his life of solitude in the midst of millions.

WEAR WHITE TO LIVE LONG?

Vienna Scientist Says It's Worst Color, While Boston Doctor Says It Is Best for Summer.

Boston, Mass., July 30.—[Special.]—The question of dressing in white attire, which many have declared to be essential to health and longevity, has become the cause of a controversy which has been taken up far and wide.

"White is the worst possible color to wear in summer," says a world noted scientist of Vienna, and his dictum has increased the discussion.

"White is the best possible color to wear in summer," says Dr. Laura A. C. Hughes, a noted Boston woman physician, and one whose opinion on this subject can be taken with full authority.

TAFT GALLANT ON MOTOR TRIP.

Takes Handkerchief from Neck and Waves at Girl Who Greets Him in Baltimore.

Baltimore, Md., July 30.—[Special.]—President Taft motored to Baltimore and back to Washington today.

As he was returning a girl in a passing touring car called, "Hello, Mr. Taft." Mr. Taft took a handkerchief from his neck and, smiling in reply to the greeting, waved it at the young woman.

Crowds saluted the president all along the Washington-Baltimore boulevard.

OFFERS HIS LIFE TO BEATTIE

Consumptive Wants $5,000 to Provide for Family.

WOULD ASSUME THE CRIME.

Pleads Likeness to Man Described as Woman's Slayer.

Richmond, Va., July 30.—[Special.]—A stranger, who is a consumptive, today offered to save Henry Clay Beattie, Jr., accused of murdering his wife—offered to give his own life, if need be, to that end. His proposition was, of course, refused.

The man wants $5,000. He has a wife and several children unprovided for in event of his death. He wants the $5,000 for them.

When Beattie brought home the body of his wife the night she was slain he stammered in explanation of the tragdy:

"A tall man—tall—six feet, pale—with a stubbly beard. He killed her—he got away—look for him."

Basis of His Proposition.

And the stranger who would assume a crime he never committed, and die on the gallows that his family might have the comforts of life, based his strange proposition on this argument:

"Look at me closely! I am tall. I am pale I have a stubbly beard. I am exactly like the man he described.

"No, I'm not crazy. I have a motive in declaring myself like this highwayman who could not be found.

"I want $5,000—not for myself; for my family. For that sum I will step forward at any hour you name and confess myself the slayer of Louise Owen Beattie.

"Why? Here's why. I am a consumptive. I have less than a year to live. I don't care about that. But I have a wife and children. I have all I can do now to support them. When I die they will be penniless.

Easy to Do It, He Says.

"Give me $5,000, so that they may be made comfortable for at least a time, and your Henry Clay Beattie may go free, with his name cleared and his father's fortune to inherit. I've thought of suicide many times. A quick death is better than a slow one.

"And the thing is possible—it's easy. There is not a living soul in the world who can say that I was not the highwayman; that I was not present at the time Mrs. Beattie was killed. I was away from home that night. No one save myself knows where I was or what I did."

PRESS AGENT USES DERRICK TO POST BILLS ON HIGH WALL.

Has Inspiration That Opens Supposedly Unavailable Surface to Lithographs of His Show.

Bill posting with a steam derrick is the latest result of the combined talent of the resourceful advertiser and the brave bill poster. On the south wall of the Hartford building, at Madison and Dearborn streets, there was until recently a large, five story section of blank bricks. It appeared when the old Hunt's hotel, next door to the Hartford building, was torn down to make way for the Hamilton club.

For six weeks the advertising possibilities of this wall remained undeveloped, owing to the manifest expense which would have accompanied the erection of a scaffold, such as is usually used by bill posters in "sky work."

The observing eyes of a theatrical man noted a big derrick which had been used in the demolition of the hotel. He called on a billposting firm and the next morning two bill posters appeared with paste, brushes, and large lithographs.

A dump wagon was turned upside down; the hooks of the derrick were attached to its sides, and, the bill posters having mounted it, the wagon was raised and swung to the level of the fourth story. By noon the entire four stories were plastered, in which condition they remain.

LASHED TO MAST WITH CHILD

Woman Tells of 24 Hours' Fight with High Seas.

SAVED BY ANOTHER SHIP.

Waves, Dashing Over Deck of Schooner, Kept Them in Danger.

New York, July 30.—[Special.]—Mrs. Albert MacRell, wife of the master of the schooner N. E. Ayer, which was almost swamped by the waves during the terrific gale that swept the eastern New England coast on Friday, is safe in Boston after being lashed to the mast of her husband's vessel, with their 14 months old baby. She was taken off the vessel by a lifeboat from the passenger steamship Bunker Hill.

Mrs. MacRell was in her perilous position more than twenty-four hours. Throughout the day and part of the night she was drenched by every wave that broke against the vessel. During all of this time she held her sickly baby in her arms, protecting it as best she could from the waves which time and again swept over them.

Woman's Story of Fight.

Here is Mrs. MacRell's own narrative of the thrilling occurrences of that wild day and night:

"I was not afraid. I had absolute faith in my husband. The storm struck us Friday morning, and it was pretty bad for a time. First a wave carried away the bowsprit and then the mainmast snapped. Toward afternoon we were driven from the cabin by the water. There was no supper, because the galley was under water.

"The decks were flooded, too—that is, the deck was still above the level of the water, but every time a sea would come it swept right over the deck. The ship seemed to be settling all the time.

"I was told to go up on the deck of the pilot house and my husband tied me to the mast. I had our baby boy Albert in my arms and for a time we were fairly dry. Then the spume began to drip over us and we were soon wet to the skin. The baby was brave and didn't cry much.

Lumber Cargo Saves Ship.

"We carried a cargo of lumber and but for that we would have gone to the bottom. The sea ran higher and higher. The rain fell in torrents.

"It was 7 a. m. when we caught sight of the big black hull of the Bunker Hill. We were then at anchor and a distress signal was flying from the stump of the mainmast. That ship was the most welcome sight of my life. The men jumped aboard and cheered and cheered. But when I had been taken on board and was given clothes and food my heart was too full for words."

Capt. MacRell and his men refused to leave the Ayer and a wireless message was sent to the United States revenue cutter Gresham calling assistance for the schooner. The vessel will probably be towed to Boston, where Mrs. MacRell will join her husband.

THREE HURT IN $10,000 FIRE; FIREMEN WILL ASK INQUIRY.

Five Houses Destroyed by Queer Blaze That Starts in Rubbish Pile Back of South Chicago Shoe Store.

Three persons were slightly injured and five houses were destroyed by a $10,000 fire which started in the rear of 8728 Commercial avenue shortly after 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon and for a time threatened to destroy many other frame buildings in the vicinity.

I. Graffman, 8728 Commercial avenue, was burned about the face and hands in attempting to extinguish the fire, and Clement Strumski and his wife, 8726 Commercial avenue, were burned attempting to carry furniture from the house.

The fire started in a box of rubbish at the rear of the shoe store owned by Graffman and was discovered by Frank Payowski, who lives across the alley from the store.

When members of engine company No. 46 arrived the fire had spread and additional calls for apparatus were sent in.

The firemen were unable to learn how the fire started among the rubbish and, according to Battalion Chief Thomas Kenyon, Fire Attorney Sullivan will be asked to investigate.

FIND NEW GOSPEL ON EGYPTIAN TRIP

Boston Men Engaged in Translating Matter Written on Papyrus Rolls.

DISCOVERED IN MOUND.

Conversation with Priest Told in Part of Writing Which Has Been Read.

Boston, Mass., July 30.—[Special.]—A new uncanonical gospel of Christ, containing many utterances of Jesus which are unknown to the world, is believed to have been discovered through the work of the Egyptian exploration fund, according to an official announcement issued from the Boston headquarters of the fund.

Enough ancient writings have been dug up to furnish material for twenty large printed volumes.

Prof. Bernard P. Grenfell and Prof. Arthur S. Hunt are engaged in the work of translating the mass of recovered papyrus. Prof. Whittemore went to Egypt several months ago on the strength of subscriptions made by wealthy Bostonians. He succeeded in completing the work of opening and recovering the long hidden treasures from one of the mounds through special permission of the khedive.

Conversation with a Priest.

The bulk of the fragment is concerned with a conversation between Jesus and a chief priest, which takes place in the temple at Jerusalem. The translation says:

"But give heed, lest ye also suffer the same things as they; for the evildoers among men receive their reward, not among the living only, but also await pupishment and much torment.

"And a certain Pharisee, a chief priest, met them and said to the Saviour: 'Who gave thee leave to walk in this place of purification and to see these holy vessels when thou hast not washed nor yet have thy disciples bathed their feet? But defiled thou hast walked in this temple, which is a pure place, wherein no other man walks except he has washed himself and changed his garments, neither does he venture to see these holy vessels.'

"And the Saviour straightway stood still with his disciples and answered him, 'Art thou, then, being here in this temple, clean?'

"He said unto him, 'I am clean; for I washed in the pool of David, and having descended by one staircase, I ascended by another, and I put on white and clean garments, and then I came and looked upon these holy vessels.'

Translation Not Ended.

"The Saviour answered and said unto him 'Woe, ye blind, who see not. Thou hast washed in these running waters wherein dogs and swine have been cast night and day, and hast cleansed and wiped the outside skin which also the harlots and flute girls anoint and wash and wipe and beautify for the lust of men; but within they are full of scorpions and all wickedness. But I and my disciples, who thou sayest have not bathed, have been dipped in the waters of eternal life which come from. But woe unto the.'"

Here ends the translation.

WANT TO SILENCE NEW MERIT PROBE

With Crow Out, Broader Inquiry Said to Be Opposed by Some County Officials.

THREE TESTS CANCELED.

Another Eligible List Sought for Physician Jobs at Dunning and Oak Forest.

The future investigation of county civil service tests, regarding which there have been rumors of graft, was clouded with considerable uncertainty yesterday. There seemed to be a decided sentiment against making public any more scandals relating to Dr. Thomas S. Crowe, who resigned Saturday as county physician.

He was involved in a charge of boosting the grades of eight contestants in the examination for county hospital internes. The feeling seems to be that as he has stepped down and out, further attacks on him should cease. It is the opinion of President Ballard Dunn of the merit board, President Bartzen of the county board, and others that all tests against which there is the least suspicion should be quietly investigated and the defects, if any are found, remedied without exploitation.

It was learned during the day that there are three examinations, assistant county physician, senior and junior physicians at Dunning and Oak Forest, which have practically been canceled. In each of these Dr. Crowe is said to have had a finger.

Interne Inquiry to Go On.

The investigation of the internes' examination, however, will continue. The investigators are scheduled to meet this evening and a lively session is expected. By those who have been watching the inquiry it was predicted yesterday that there will be a complete airing of medical schools, and the profession which may develop some direct charges of a sensational character.

Dr. M. L. Harris and Dr. Charles J. Rowan have received special invitations to be present. The latter has asked that his other two colleagues on the marking board be invited. The six physicians who framed the questions for the examination have been requested to be there. One of these is Dr. John Dill Robertson, whose name was used in a statement made Saturday by Dr. Harris to President Dunn. This session may blockade any scheme there may be to soft pedal further investigations.

Would Keep Facts Secret.

It is reported that Dr. Crowe's name is connected with most of the rumors relating to civil service tests, and it is said to be the intention of the civil service commission to get all of the facts relating to each and suppress them, unless the commission thinks some public service can be gained by publication.

It is said also that nearly all these rumors have been investigated already, and that the commission has all the information possible about the prices asked for influence in tests. These were said to be from $10 to $250, according to the salary attached to the job desired by the applicant.

That the merit board has done much work is clearly indicated by its advertising examinations for assistant county physician, senior and junior physicians at Dunning and Oak Forest. It has not been over two or three months since tests for these places were held. It is known that Dr. Crowe was closely connected with each of these examinations.

President Dunn declined to discuss the matter yesterday. He would not even admit that the eligible lists have been canceled.

Eligible List Canceled?

If they have not been canceled, the question arises, why does the bulletin board of the commission say that a test for junior physicians will be held on Aug. 15 and the other tests later. It is possible that the board, if pressed for an official statement, will say that the tests were canceled by the new civil service law which became effective on July 1. They have that privilege, but a story was found in two different places yesterday to the effect that the tests were canceled because of Dr. Crowe's connection with them.

The position of assistant county physician is under the jurisdiction of the county agent. These doctors prescribe for persons unable to pay for the service and are paid about $1.50 a call. The average value of the jobs is about $1,000 year. Senior physicians receive salaries between $1,800 and $2,500 a year, according to their grade and length of service. The pay of a junior physician is $1,200 yearly, including board and room.

Tells Position of Loyola.

The Rev. H. S. Spalding, regent of Loyola university, issued a formal statement yesterday giving certain information regarding that school's connection with the internes' examination. The regent was under the impression that the public believes that the final result of the internes' test involves irregularities. Forty marks were changed, but they were discovered and the correct marks substituted before the final report was made. Mr. Spalding said that Loyola university did not pay anything for Bennett Medical school, that the stockholders are assuming the financial burden, and that Loyola university is responsible for the scholarship, appointing the professors and prescribing the curriculum.

That corrects rumors floating around the county building. He also said that Bennett Medical college had from four to six internes in the county hospital yearly between 1889 and 1906. Since then, until this year, the school felt its students had no chance because of the methods of examination.

"All Loyola university wants is equal representation with other universities," reads the statement, referring to the framing of the test questions. "Mr. Bartzen advised that all colleges be given this representation, that all be treated alike, that no favoritism be shown. We believe that none has been shown. We are proud of the records of our students. They are giving satisfaction in their new work. Let us have the truth about this examination. We believe that other colleges which were fairly beaten are trying to throw discredit on the methods of conducting the examination. In regard to the recent examination and the investigation now in progress, Loyola university desires to state that we believe that these examinations were strictly and honestly conducted.

SALOON ROW ENDS IN SHOOTING.

One Man Probably Fatally Injured—Saloonkeeper and Others Tell Conflicting Stories—All Held.

Anthony Mazounick, 536 Liberty street, was shot and probably fatally wounded yesterday in a saloon at South Canal and Maxwell streets. He was taken to the County hospital. Luke Pinecyski, part owner of the saloon, and five other men, were arrested. Pinecyski said Mazounick was shot by Conrad Zelch, who escaped. The other men told conflicting stories and all are being held until detectives investigate the shooting.

Aviator and Fair Passenger; Wife and Baby Watching.

OTTO BRODIE AND LEONA BLISS

MEET AIDS AIRMAN'S WIDOW

Local Aviators Fly to Help Woman Whose Husband Was Killed.

WIVES WATCH EFFORTS.

Young Woman Takes Windy Aeroplane Trip as Passenger.

James, favorite—and only—son of Otto Brodie, Illinois Aeoro club aviator, celebrated his first birthday yesterday by watching his father flirt with the clouds at the Cicero flying grounds.

The elder Brodie made several flights at the afternoon meet, which had been arranged for the benefit of Mrs. Dan Kreamer, whose husband lost his life at the aviation field early in the month. On one of his trips Brodie carried a woman passenger, Miss Leona Bliss of Chicago.

Other aviators—flying field companions of Kreamer—participated in the meet and helped to wipe out the $2,500 mortgage from the Kreamer home at Freeport, Ill. Allan Lougheed circled the grounds in a machine that had been designed and built within the last ten days and which never before had been tested.

The mishap that resulted in Kreamer's death as he esayed the air tests leading to a pilot's license did not daunt the wives of other aviators. Mrs. Brodie, with her baby in her arms, stood beside Mrs. Lougheed, and the two coolly watched their husbands takine the same chances as had Kreamer.

Aviators Brave Breeze.

Nearly a thousand persons had assembled in the field by the time the first flight was made. It had been arranged to begin flying early in the afternoon, but a strong wind kept the aviators on the ground.

At 5:30 o'clock the crowd had tired of looking into the hangars at flying machines in various stages of disintegration, but the wind still blew high. Had it been any other day, it was said, no flights would have been attempted. The widow's benefit, however, had drawn many persons in the crowd, and rather than disappoint them the airmen decided to risk the breeze.

Willie Lenert was the first to take the air. When the tattoo of his motor started the spectators swarmed to the south end of the field, near his hangar. They came near seeing an unparalleled flight with a dog as passenger, for Fanny, Lenert's pet canine, made a desperate attempt to accompany her master aloft. She chased the machine across the field and tried to board it several times. When it began to climb an invisible incline into an element that dogs, unaided, cannot navigate, Fanny yelped with anguish and ran forlornly to the hangar.

Girl Brave as Passenger.

Then Brodie followed Lenert on the field, making two flights with passengers and several alone. Miss Bliss, who has been making short flights by herself in a Curtiss biplane belonging to James E. Plew, accompanied the aviator on his second flight. Familiarity with the air and its currents had made her forgetful, apparently, of the danger, and she waved her hand to her friends below as the machine rushed through space at a mile a minute clip.

Walter R. Sollitt, owner of the machine driven by Brodie, was married last Wednesday. He and his bride spent the afternoon at the field. It was understood that they would attempt a flight together, but Mr. Sollitt evidently changed his mind when he saw the big crowd of onlookers.

MARRY, TELL PARENTS BY WIRE.

Young Chicago Couple Steal March on Relatives—Depart on Wedding Trip, Then Send Telegrams.

"Am married to Edna. Home Monday," was the telegram that Roland A. Graser, 3306 Warren avenue, Chicago, sent to his relatives in Chicago yesterday from Milwaukee, where he and his bride had arrived on a late train Saturday night. The bride is Edna Kindel of 858 Oakdale avenue, Chicago. The groom is secretary of the American Shipping company, of which his father, A. E. Graser, is president. Last Saturday afternoon the young couple secured a marriage licenee, were wedded in Chicago by a friend of the groom, and departed for Milwaukee.

BOY DIES IN DIVE AT PICNIC

Family Outing Leads to Death of 10 Year Old in Lake.

PLUNGES FROM HIGH PIER.

Seeks to Emulate Swimmers and Goes Into Deep Water.

A quiet Sunday outing of the families of John Brenner, 3524 North Ashland avenue, and August Schrod, 3826 North Hamilton avenue, brothers-in-law, had a sad ending yesterday, when Arthur Brenner, 10 years old, was drowned in Lake Michigan, off Chestnut street and Sheridan road, Wilmette. The accident happened at noon, shortly after the families had reached the lake shore, and the father of the boy had gone to carry water to be used in getting dinner.

Clad in bathing suits, children of both families went out on a pier and were watching several other bathers of a picnic party near by.

Tries to Illustrate Dive.

Arthur attempted to dive from the pier and show the others how the older persons performed the act. He plunged into fifteen feet of water. Before aid could reach him he was drowned.

The Evanston life saving crew and the Wilmette police were summoned, and after over an hour's work the life saving crew in command of Capt. Peter Jensen recovered the body. It was taken to undertaking rooms in Evanston and later was removed to Chicago after the coroner had been notified.

Children See a Rescue.

Arden shore, the summer camp located on the lake shore near Lake Bluff for children from the congested districts of Chicago, was thrown into a panic yesterday afternoon when one of the workers at the camp was rescued from drowning by a fellow worker.

I. A. Smothers, 20 years old, a student at Northwestern university, was the young man saved. His rescuer was George Lovcik. The occurrence took place nearly half a mile from shore and in full view of the hundred or more children at the camp.

The two young men had been diving from a raft in the lake. Smothers swam some distance away from it. He suddenly began calling for help and commenced struggling in the water. Lovcik hastened to his rescue, grasping him about the body and attemping to get him back on the raft. Both probably would have drowned if John MacArthur, official live saver at the camp, had not hastened from shore to the scene.

MacArthur relieved Lovcik of his burden. He managed to swim with the unconscious man to shore. The latter was resuscitated by being rolled on a barrel. It is believed that Smothers was seized with a cramp.

POLICE GET 3 AUTO SPEEDERS.

Make Arrests in Wilmette—Drivers Run from 22 to 40 Miles an Hour—Make Deposits.

Three more arrests for speeding were made yesterday in Wilmette. About 1 o'clock in the morning H. W. Lustrom of Chicago and H. C. Watts, 34 North Franklin street, deposited $10 each to assure their appearance in court Aug. 2. Special Officer Barber, who arrested them, said Lustrom was going twenty-four miles an hour and Watts twenty-two. Yesterday afternoon George Minear, 1530 Maple avenue, Evanston, met the same fate. He was said to be making forty.

"BRASS BAND" PASTOR QUITS

Rumor Says Percival H. Barker's Methods Were Not Popular.

HE LOOKS FOR WIDER FIELD.

Given Two Months' Furlough and Will Resign October 1.

The connection of the Rev. Percival H. Barker, Maywood's "brass band" pastor, with the First Congregational church in that suburb is to end Oct. 1. Mr. Barker will spend the next two months on furlough at his parents' residence in Canada.

Just who took the initiative in severing Mr. Barker's ties to the church is not generally known. Aside from himself and a few trustees no one is sure whether the pastor deserted the church or vice versa.

Rumors that Mr. Barker and the church were to divorce each other were circulated early in the week, when the Maywood newspapers failed to print the name of Mr. Barker in the church notices. It also was said Mr. Barker's name had been painted from the announcement board of the church, but this not true.

Many Rumors in Air.

One report had it that the sensational methods adopted by the pastor to increase his flock had been found wanting in the end. According to another, a more opulent church wished to possess itself of the disciple of the "twentieth century gospel," and had made Mr. Barker a tempting offer. Still others said that Mr. Barker had made no definite arrangement with another church, but that he felt he could find a broader field beyond the borders of Maywood.

Mr. Barker preached his closing sermon in the Maywood church a week ago yesterday. Then he packed his trunk and told Mrs. Mary Roberts, from whom he rented his modest bachelor apartment, that he was going on a vacation. He preached yesterday morning in Chicago at the Warren avenue Congregational church, then boarded a train bound for the north. Before leaving he declined to throw any light on the situation.

Denies They Asked for Resignation.

Trustees or members of the congregation were unwilling to talk about the departure of Mr. Barker. Dr. W. C. Lovejoy, a trustee, acted as spokesman for the flock.

"We have not asked Mr. Barker to resign," he said. "I understand, however, that he will leave us in October. Where he is going or what he intends to do I do not know."

Mr. Barker first attracted attention in June, 1909, when with a thirty-five piece brass band as a magnet he drew an audience of 1,000 people to Maywood park to hear his sermon on "A Fight on Character."

Staid members of his congregation received the shock of their lives in March, 1910, when the five prettiest girls in the organization supplanted the old trustees as "offertory collectors."

PLANKS SAVE CAR FROM SEWER.

Collision Throws It from Track and Upon Covering Over Ditch—Only One Passenger Bruised.

Two heavy planks across a sewer excavation prevented what might have been a serious accident last night when a southbound Seventy-ninth street and Clybourn avenue car collided with an eastbound North avenue car. The North avenue car was swept off the track and the front end jammed across the four foot excavation. Its wheels stopped on the heavy planking. No one was injured except Mrs. Esther Bernstein, 1421 South Halsted street. She was badly shaken up. An ambulance from the North Halsted street station took her to the German hospital.

SUNKEN PIER IMPERILS BOAT.

Craft Runs Upon Piling Which Lies Below Water—Life Saving Crew Rescues Party.

A sunken pier at the foot of Twenty-ninth street nearly brought disaster to a motor boat party yesterday. John Groessel, 4252 Bernard street, took a party of five persons out for a lake ride. The boat ran upon the sunken pier. The life saving station was notified by spectators on shore, the boat was pulled off the piling undamaged, and the journey was resumed. The pier is about 300 feet long. Forty feet at the outer end has sunk four inches below the surface of the water.

SHERIFF IN TREE SEES PRIZEFIGHT

With Rifle in Hand Deputy Watches a "Knockout" on Scow in Canal.

STOPPED PREVIOUS BOUT.

Principals and Spectators Then Flee in Boat Across Line Into Du Page County.

A prize fight in which four bouts were to have been fought at Sag Bridge was stopped yesterday by Deputy Sheriff Walter Fishbach of Lemont, acting under orders from Sheriff Michael Zimmer.

After he stopped the fight the spectators and principals hired a scow and entered Du Page county, where within a hundred feet from where Deputy Sheriff Fishbach was standing with a rifle, the first bout, one supposed to go twelve rounds, was begun.

It ended in the third round, when "Kid" Fleming of Joliet knocked out "Kid" Tremple, colored, of Memphis, Tenn.

Following the knockout the other fighters refused to go on with the rest of the events.

Rope Off Ring on Scow.

Early in the afternoon Fishbach learned that four fights were to be held at a saloon owned by Lawrence Kirk at Sag Bridge. He notified Sheriff Zimmer and the latter ordered his deputy to stop the bouts.

On arriving at the saloon Fishbach found the principals prepared for the fight with over a hundred onlookers.

With a rifle in his hand, Fishbach announced that the fight could not take place. A hurried consultation between the principals and promoters was held and a scow on the Illinois and Michigan canal was hired and the crowd embarked down the canal. They stopped within one hundred feet of the Cook county line, and after roping off an arena on the scow the first fight was started.

For three rounds the fighters fought back and forth, the spectators shouting for their favorites and the deputy sheriff and several of his friends watching the fight from a tree on the county line.

"You can fight your heads off there, boys," the deputy sheriff called to the men.

Knockout Stops Other Bouts.

In the third round Fleming struck his opponent in the solar plexus and the negro went down for the count. Following this were to have been three other bouts, but the principals refused to fight. The other principals supposed to fight were:

Robert McMullen and Timothy Harvey of Joliet, eight rounds.

Thomas Murphy and Dennis O'Connell of Joliet, six rounds.

George Coyne of Lockport and "Spike" Louchran of Joliet, six rounds.

Following the refusal of these to fight the crowd returned to Sag Bridge.

WOMAN'S WIT CATCHES THIEF, WHO TURNS OUT HER OWN SON.

Writes Note to Policeman at Illinois Central Depot, Who Catches Young Fugitive With $195.

Woman's wit caused the arrest last night of a 16 year old boy who had robbed his father of $200 and was leaving the city for Florida. The woman, Mrs. Fred Bernth, resides at 2700 Cottage Grove avenue. It was her son, Charles, who stole the money. Bernth keeps a saloon at the above address and his wife conducts a boarding house.

A tin box containing the $200 which had been put away for the rent that is due today was found by the boy under a bed. He left the house with the box about 5 o'clock in the afternoon. Having no use for the box after taking the money from it, he hid it under a coal car in the Illinois Central yards at Twenty-sixth street.

Mrs. Bernth discovered the theft an hour later. She had heard her son speak of going in Florida some time ago, and divined that he was heading for the south. She wrote a note, which she gave to one of the boarders, and directed him to take it to the policeman at the Illinois Central depot. The note contained a description of the boy and asked that he be arrested.

Policeman Dan Kinnane, at the depot, saw a boy who answered the description, except that he had no box, and arrested him. The boy had spent $5 of the money with two companions who went with him to the depot. He was taken to the Juvenile home.

TWO MEN JAILED FOR ROBBING ROOMS AT SARATOGA HOTEL.

Jewelry Found in Possession of Prisoners and Store of Plunder Discovered in Apartment of Former Bellboy.

Two alleged "room workers" Saturday night and yesterday morning were detected looting rooms and have been placed under arrest. The men are John Bunker and John Swanson.

Bunker, first arrested, is said formerly to have been employed as a bellboy at another downtown hotel. He was discovered loitering in the hall on the second floor. He is said to have admitted he had entered four rooms in the evening. Jewelry and other valuables were found in his possession. A pass key and a number of other keys also were found in his pockets, the police say.

Detectives raided his room at West Oak and North State streets, where several hundred dollars' worth of stolen clothes and jewelry were recovered. The property has been identified by Saratoga guests.

Swanson was arrested while leaving a room. A small amount of jewelry was found upon his person.

SAYS SCRIPTURE INDICATES AN "AFTERLIFE" FOR HORSE.

Methodist Minister Holds "Creator Could Not Be Just and Damn Heroic Animal with Mortality."

Biblical quotations indicating an afterlife for horses were cited last night by the Rev. Frank C. Bruner of the Loomis Street M. E. church in a sermon on "The Horse in Theology."

"The most intelligent creature of the animal kingdom," he said, "is the horse. No other animal serves men so willingly nor so faithfully. He is well worthy of an existence beyond the grave. His service merits it. He is good and God rewards goodness. The great Creator could not be just and damn this heroic dumb animal with mortality.

"Just as God sees the fall of every sparrow, he knows of the career of every Chicago dray horse, of its sufferings, of its labor, of its treatment, whether it be good or bad. And I firmly believe that as surely as cruel and wicked drivers will be punished for the cruelty that their faithful animals will be rewarded for their manhood."

BOMB HITS PARK GREENHOUSE

Washington's Conservatory Attacked; Labor War Cause?

POLICE WITHOUT CLEWS.

South Side Residents Hear Explosion; Telephone Alarm.

Another of the series of bomb explosions believed to be a part of the warfare between a branch of the electrical workers' union and the employers damaged the conservatory in Washington park early yesterday morning. The bomb was exploded at the north end of the structure. It did $200 damage.

The blast was heard for blocks and aroused many of the residents of Hyde Park. Calls were sent to the Hyde Park and the Fiftieth street police stations, but when the policemen arrived they could find no clew to the dynamiters.

Electric Company Not Involved.

A theory was advanced that the bomb was directed against the Commonwealth Edison company, which has done some work for the south park commissioners. Officials of the company, however, said that no work was being carried on in the immediate vicinity of the explosion.

Supt. J. F. Foster of the park was the only one who could give any information upon which the police could work. He said there had been a disagreement between a branch of the electrical workers and the park board which had resulted in an open shop arrangement concerning park employes.

Expected Wage Settlement.

"The electricians who are working under an open shop arrangement asked for an increase in wages some time ago," he said. "I have since discussed the matter with officials of their organization and a settlement was to have been reached through arbitration.

"I have no reason to say that I believe the electrical workers had any part in the explosion. I stated merely the facts in the case."

THREATEN TO BLOW UP DAM TO END MOSQUITO EPIDEMIC.

Forest Park Residents Issue Ultimatum to Suburb Electric Company, Owner of River Obstruction.

In a campaign to wipe out a mosquito nuisance in the suburb, village trustees of River Forest last night voted to issue an ultimatum to the North Shore Electric company to the effect that the dam across the Desplaines river will be blown out with dynamite unless it is removed within a week.

It also was voted to buy a carload of crude oil, which will be sprayed over the river's surface to prevent the breeding of the pests, a method which the government operated with success in the tropics.

The fight against the lighting company was declared lawful by the village attorney on the basis that the dam is a public nuisance. At River Forest the river stands in stagnant pools, due, it is said, to the obstructing Lake street bridge.

The electric company for years had a small dam to back water for use of the plant. Recently a new and larger dam was built above the old one and this construction, it is said, has formed acres of lowlands covered with stagnant water.

Action of the village board followed a report by Dr. John B. Lyon, village health commissioner, that the river shallows are a favorable breeding place for swarms of mosquitoes which have infested the village this summer, and that the condition is dangerous to the health of the residents. In the ultimatum the date by which the company must remove the dam is set at Aug. 5.

Another grievance which Forest Park says it has against the North Shore Electric company is an alleged exorbitant rate for emergency lighting service. The trustees recently awarded the contract for lighting the village to the sanitary district and supplying power to the water works. They sought an arrangement with the electric company for current in storms and pending repairs of accidents when the power from the sanitary district might be cut off.

WHITE MAN KILLED IN FIGHT WITH NEGROES; ONE ARRESTED

Shooting Occurs at State Street and Harmon Place at Early Hour Sunday Morning and One Assailant Escapes.

An unidentified man was shot and killed at 1:30 o'clock yesterday morning by one of two negroes at Harmon place and State street. One of them was arrested as he was attempting to climb over a billboard on the opposite side of the street.

When taken to the Harrison street station and questioned by Lieut. Martin, the prisoner denied complicity in the shooting and said he was just a witness. He gave the name of William Carson, 468 South State street. The other negro escaped by running east in Harmon place.

The bullet pierced the victim's heart and death, according to physicians at St. Luke's hospital, was instantaneous. He was about 40 years old.

ASK PENSION FOR POOR MOTHER

Judge Pinckney Will Invoke Aid of New Clause in Juvenile Law—Little Family Starving.

If the new pension clause of the juvenile law is in good working order, a problem of life and death import may be solved for Mrs. Anna Wytiklene and her three half starved, ailing children, who live in a basement at 1413 South Forty-ninth avenue. Since September, 1909, when her husband died of typhoid fever, Mrs. Wytiklene has been the breadwinner, but she fought a losing battle. One by one the children, the oldest of whom is 5, fell sick. Then the mother herself collapsed. The income stopped, so did the doctor's visits, and so did the medicine. That was a month ago. Last month the rent of $7 was paid by a Sister of Charity. Now the family faces eviction. Judge Pinckney of the Juvenile court will endeavor to secure a pension for the mother.

GIRL BEER AGENT ARRESTED.

Glencoe Begins Campaign Against Solicitation of Orders by Fining Her Twenty Dollars.

Residents of Glencoe may drink beer, and it may be delivered to them at their homes when ordered, but soliciting it in the county line suburb will not be tolerated.

Decided action toward stopping the solicitation of orders for the cooling beverage was not taken until a woman solicitor became so bold as to enter the village on a recent Sunday morning and seek orders amid the ringing of the church bells.

This it was thought was mixing drinks and religion too much, and last week Margaret Schmidt and John Plutter were fined $20 and costs for the practice by Justice of the Peace M. T. Lane.

68 BOYS MISSING; 'WILD WEST' LURE

Many Garbed in Cowboy Suits and Armed with Revolvers Leave Home in 2 Weeks.

SOME YOUNG AS 5 YEARS.

Ambition to Be "Big Army Officers" Leads Others to Run Away.

During the last two weeks sixty-eight Chicago boys have disappeared from their homes according to the records of the "missing" department at the detective bureau.

Parents of a majority of the number blame two diseases prevalent among youngsters throughout the city. These are termed "wildwestitis" and "armytheria."

The parents have told the police that in both diseases the symptoms are the same. They are characterized by a fondness for trying to throw a clothesline over the neck of the family cat, a liking for revolvers and sombreros, and a fascination for "tomahawking" the garbage cans in the neighborhood.

With a large number of the missing boys it has resulted in their leaving home to "be a cowboy" or a "gen'ral." It is this part which is causing the parents sleepless nights of worry while awaiting some message from their loved ones

Out of the sixty-eight only two are reported as having been found and returned to their homes. It is probable, however, that a number have returned and that the police have not received notification.

List of the Missing Boys.

A full list of the boys 18 years of age and under who have been reported as missing to the detective bureau during the last two weeks is as follows:

ARONOVITCH, SAMUEL, 14 years old, 2122 West Nineteenth street; left home July 16.
ATTARDO, PHILLIP, 15 years old, 720 Vedder street; ran away from home; reported missing July 25.
BELOTTI, JOSEPH, 8 years old, 186 East One Hundred and Seventeenth place; left home July 20.
BICKIE, JOHN, 14 years old, 2206 West Monroe street; scar on right side of face; told his companions he was going to join a "wild west" show.
BRUGATTA, JOSEPH, 15 years old, 638 South State street; reported missing July 20.
BULICH, STEPHEN, 9 years old, 3528 East Eighty-ninth street; scar on chin; left home July 27.
BURNS, PETER, 16 years old, 6023 Normal avenue; reported missing July 25.
CEDAR, JULIUS, 9 years old, 1980 West Jackson boulevard; left home July 16.
CHERSSER, HARRY, 7 years old, 4421 North Forty-sixth court; reported missing July 19.

HEALTH HEAD URGES BETTER TREATMENT FOR CHILDREN.

Dr. Cohen of Contagious Disease Bureau Says Economic Necessity No Longer Calls for Child Labor.

"Hand the world over to the children; don't put it on their shoulders," was the advice of Dr. Hyman Cohen, assistant chief of the bureau of contagious diseases of the health department, in a lecture yesterday at Lincoln center, Oakwood boulevard and Langley avenue. His subject was "Giving the Child a Chance."

"We have seen how the child was regarded among the savages and ancients—holding almost no place among them," said Dr. Cohen. "We have seen how it has been treated as a chattel and overworked between the millstones of the world's industry. Now, however, there is no economic reason for the still existing conditions which blight childhood.

Dr. Cohen urged co-operation with the health department for everyone interested in child welfare. He told of the necessity for pure air, food and drink, and invited all persons interested in the care of children to come to the health department for advice.

Harrison Fisher's Model 'Stolen' by Christy

MISS LUCY COTTON
FROM THE PAINTING BY HARRISON FISHER

Miss Lucy Catton, who has posed for Harrison Fisher's many pictures of pretty girls, was carried off by Howard Chandler Christy, while Fisher was absent from New York. Christy went to see Miss Ruth Catton about an engagement as model, saw her sister, Lucy, found she answered his requirements, and, it is said, induced her to move to Zanesville, O., where his studio is located. It is expected there will be an explosion when Fisher learns that he has lost his model.

DRUNKEN MAN CUTS THROATS OF WOMAN AND HER HUSBAND.

Attacks Mrs. Anna Tebel, Wounds Spouse Who Seeks to Rescue Her—Police Lieutenant Ends Struggle.

In a drunken frenzy, John Courtney, a boarder in the home of Albert Tebel, 1127 Jackson boulevard, last night attacked Mrs. Tebel, slashed her throat and then inflicted serious wounds on her husband, who went to his wife's rescue. They were taken to the county hospital, both seriously injured. Courtney and a companion, John Maloney, who witnessed the stabbing, are being held at the Desplaines street police station.

Maloney went with Courtney to the Tebel home, where Courtney has been rooming. Both men had been drinking. They arrived about 8 o'clock, and Courtney stopped on the front porch to ask Tebel where his wife was at the moment. Tebel, not observing his questioner's condition, indicated a back room. The two men entered.

Hardly had the door closed after them than Tebel heard screams from his wife. Breaking open the door, he found her fighting with Courtney. Maloney was idly looking on. He seemed puzzled.

As Courtney, perceiving Tebel, sprang away from the woman, her husband saw that she was bleeding at the throat. He closed with her assailant and received two knife wounds, one just below the chin and the other close to the jugular vein.

Courtney had raised his knife for another thrust when Lieut. Ambrose of the Desplaines street station burst into the room. He had heard the noise of the fight as he was passing the house.

SOLDIERS' BEER OVERRIDES LAW

First Infantry, I. N. G., Solves Problem Due to Lack of Water on Train.

CONDUCTOR LOSES FIGHT.

Officers Uphold Men When Railroad Fails to Provide for Thirsty.

Two new state laws and a conflict of civil and military authority caused bitter wordy warfare during the trip of the First Illinois infantry from Chicago to Elgin Saturday night. Apparently the military arm of the government won.

The questions involved were three, as follows:

If a railroad fails to furnish water on account of the new law requiring sanitary drinking cups, have the passengers a right to drink beer outside the buffet car, especially if there is no buffet car on the train?

If soldiers on a troop train want to drink beer, has the conductor of the train the right to prevent them?

Who is in charge of such a train, anyway—the commanding military officer or the commanding representative of the railroad?

Neither Side Yields Point.

The train arrived in Elgin at 3 o'clock yesterday morning with the legal technicalities still unsettled, but the beer had disappeared and the track backward toward Chicago is said to have been littered with empty bottles—commonly known as "dead soldiers."

The trouble is said to have been caused by the hasty entraining of the men of the First regiment after their final performance at the military tournament. The discovery that there was no drinking water on the cars started the whole thing. The water was missing because of the fact that the cars were not equipped according to the new law.

The men were tired, hot, and thirsty, and it was soon discovered that among the stores were several cases of beer—which may or may not be against the law. Anyway, the thirsty men did not wait to see.

Officers Overrule Conductor.

They were soon informed by the conductor, however, that it was against the law to drink beer on a train, outside of the buffet car. It is said that the officers took the side of the men and blamed the railroad for not furnishing water. The conflict as to authority is said to have followed in heated terms.

BOTH FACTIONS LIKE SPEECH OF SENATOR JONES AT ST. LOUIS

Pleases Merriam Followers, Satisfies Deneen Men—Latter See No Cause to Start Immediate Campaign.

Senator Walter Clyde Jones' speech in opening the Republican primary campaign in East St. Louis Saturday night was read with pleasure by at least two factions of the "progressive" element of the party in Chicago yesterday morning.

The Merriam faction, represented in the Progressive Republican League of Cook county, interpreted the speech as a strong outline of the principles upon which that organization stands. The Deneen Republicans considered it from the point of view of an opponent studying his adversary's manner of fighting.

From present indications the Deneen forces will not be lined up inside of a week. Gov. Deneen has had many conferences with his friends and admirers within the last few days and left for Springfield last evening. The details of the campaign which the wing of the party he will command will wage will probably be arranged at the state capital some time this week.

Mayor Harrison was another prominent figure in the political situation who left the city yesterday. He goes to spend a month at his summer hunting and fishing camp in northern Michigan and before leaving expressed not the slightest interest in political matters.

MOROCCAN CRISIS DISTURBS BERLIN

Peril of War Has Not Passed and People Are Uneasy Over Silence.

PRESS IN ANGRY MOOD.

Most of Attacks Directed Toward Britain Because of Action in Affair.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

BERLIN, July 30.—The Moroccan situation tonight may be described as less suggestive of war than a week ago, but no means as having reached a point where a conflict is removed from the realm of possibility.

No official statement is forthcoming regarding the kaiser's conferences yesterday and today with his chancellor and foreign secretary, but something of the sort may be expected.

People of all classes are becoming both uneasy over the government's mystification and obstinacy in withholding knowledge of what is going on. The Frankfurter Zeitung, which is well informed, says only that the kaiser, contrary to report, is in fullest accord with the policy and procedure of his ministers.

Press Still Is Bellicose.

In the meantime the press continues to ring with bellicose utterances directed rather at England than at France. Everywhere one encounters belligerent statements resenting the idea of British tutelage of any kind in the settlement with France and threatening John Bull with dire consequences if he continues the policy of pushing the Fatherland to the wall and obstructing the gratification of its legitimate expansion ambitions.

To attempt to gauge the present status of the Franco-German negotiations or forecast their outcome would be the sheerest guesswork. The only positive progress the last week has recorded, from the German viewpoint, is the public withdrawal of England from her supposed "interference" in the negotiations.

There is a distinct tendency to ascribe Asquith's categorical statement on this score to the indignation aroused in Germany by Lloyd-George's combative speech on July 21, and there is irresponsible talk of a "British climbdown." Others speak of a "German climbdown," and say England's plain intimation of her unwillingness to sanction a German raid on Morocco has caused the Fatherland to beat a retreat from the ambitious scheme in its mind when the mailed fist was closed down upon the port of Agadir.

Scout Idea of Fighting.

The Germans scout the idea of war over Morocco or any of the issues which have so far developed, yet they admit that the war party, which gathers great momentum at moments like this, might easily jockey the situation into a position where ugly points of "national honor" would be raised.

The Germany of 1911 is so busy making money that war is abhorrent to the overwhelming majority of the kaiser's subjects, but the fact has to be faced that war and peace are not made and kept by the public opinion in this country, but by a handful of highly placed personages who rule the destinies of a hard working nation of 65,000,000.

Some significance is attached to the news that the seventeen regiments of cavalry which have just begun maneuvers near Magdeburg have been called off and the maneuvers canceled owing to an alleged shortage of water supply due to the tropical heat, which still holds Germany captive.

French See Settlement.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

PARIS, July 30.—The feeling with regard to the Moroccan situation continues to be optimistic. The Temps says Germany is seeking rectification of the Kamerun boundaries and offers Togoland in exchange for a part of the Gabun district, France keeping certain territory around the district ceded to Germany, giving access to the part of the Congo that is not surrendered.

The Matin refuses to prophesy and says that the question is now in the kaiser's hands. "Imperial opinion constitutes the point of interrogation," it continues. "One thing we know is that England's attitude has displeased the kaiser. It is imprudent to judge whether his discontent will influence his decision."

The Temps in its weekly money article discusses the admission of German securities on the Paris bourse as one means of reaching an understanding with Germany.

HOLY SYNOD ORDERS BARS UP AGAINST BAPTISTS IN RUSSIA.

Formidable Rebuff Given Preachers Who Announce Intention to Ask Permission to Start Seminary.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

ST. PETERSBURG, July 30.—The statement of the Rev. Russell H. Conwell of the United States and the Rev. F. B. Meyer of London, on behalf of the Baptist body, that they intend to visit St. Petersburg and appeal to the czar to sanction the establishment here or in Moscow of an international seminary for the training of Baptist preachers, has evoked a formidable rebuff from the holy synod.

Not only will the czar not receive them, but not an inch of ground will be given for the seminary.

The holy synod explains that all concessions made to others would be granted to Baptists if the ministry of the interior removed them from the lists of politically subversive sects, but they were not regarded by the orthodox church as forming a religion at all.

GOVERNOR DENEEN ADDRESSING THE CROWDS

ARNOLDS RENEW THEIR HUNT

Relatives Go to Italy in Search for Missing Girl.

TRYING TO KEEP SECRET.

Departure from New York Made Quietly After Brother Weds.

New York, July 30.—[Special.]—The search for Dorothy Arnold, who disappeared on Dec. 12 last, has taken her parents back to Italy, where it was at one time supposed she had gone to meet George S. Griscom Jr., to whom she had become engaged, though he was not approved of by the family.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis R. Arnold, parents of the girl, sailed on June 15 on the steamship Carpathia for Genoa. Their names appeared on the sailing list as Mr. F. Arnold and Mrs. Arnold, and the fact they were on board escaped attention.

George S. Griscom and his parents, whon sought for after the news of Dorothy's disappearance had become public, were found at Florence, Italy, and it is believed that the Arnolds are going straight to that country.

The fact of their sailing, just five days after the marriage of D. Hinckley Arnold, Dorothy's younger brother, with Miss Mildred Culver, has been kept secret by the family and their friends. The Arnold house at 108 East Seventy-ninth street was boarded up, and inquiries in the vicinity elicited only the information that the Arnolds had gone to the country.

D. Hinckley Arnold and his bride went to the country on their honeymoon, but his father and mother completed arrangements to go abroad as soon as the wedding was held. John W. Arnold, the eldest son, has left his apartment in the city and has taken up his residence on Staten Island. Lawyer John S. Keith, counsel for the family, also left town some time ago.

CALLS ON BISHOPS TO AID.

Portuguese Government Asks Prelates to Formulate Any Complaints Against the Republic.

LISBON, July 30.—The government has addressed a circular letter to the bishops of Portugal affirming that no hostility toward the church is intended and requesting the prelates, if they have any complaints, to formulate them.

The republic, says the circular, is endeavoring to create a régime of justice and desires to remove injustice. It asks the bishops to give their adhesion to the republic without conditions, because conditions are inconsistent with the moral authority of the republic.

UNVEIL BOHEMIAN HAVLICEK STATUE

Crowds Hear Gov. Deneen and Mayor Harrison Speak of Patriotism.

PARADES HONOR MARTYR.

Native Orators Stir Throng to Enthusiasm—Heroes Given Tributes.

The statue of Karel Havlicek, martyr of Bohemia's fight for liberty, was unveiled yesterday at Douglas park.

Gov. Deneen and Mayor Harrison spoke, but real enthusiasm followed the fiery eloquence of Bohemian orators.

The statue stands near the western limits of the park, a few yards south of Ogden avenue. It consists of a heroic bronze figure with a background of marble upon which is chiseled his name and the work for which his memory is revered.

The unveiling exercises were held at a halt in the long procession which formed at Eighteenth street and Ashland avenue and proceeded through the park to Pilsen park, where band concerts, picnic parties, and speeches in Bohemian served to enliven the evening.

More than 250 Bohemian societies were represented in the parade, many of them from other cities, which had contributed to the fund, with a score of bands and three elaborate floats. Women and children joined in the march, and many orgaizations were dressed in picturesque costumes of Bohemia.

Crowds Await Parade.

The western end of the park was crowded long before the parade arrived, and all along Ogden avenue curbs were lined with people waiting for the parade to appear.

As the procession reached the monument, the stands of colors were grouped about its base and about half of the marchers were massed in the open space of the driveway before the speakers' stand.

Gov. Deneen, in his address, said such a gathering as this typified the high ideals and high political beliefs of Bohemian people and that such gatherings of a foreign people upon American soil were not only an advantage to those who participated in them, but to us all.

In paying a tribute to Havlicek, who fought with his pen, he declared that the preparation for the final ordeal on the field of battle was often a severer test of principles and bravery than the battle itself.

Mayor Harrison addressed the crowd as "fellow Bohemians," and spoke principally on the cosmopolitan character of modern America, which he said was a new idea in government. He pointed out that while in Europe geographical boundaries separated widely diverging customs and languages, in America all were assimilated.

"The nations of Europe are sending us of their best," he said, "and of all these none are more desirable than the Bohemian. We will welcome the time when Chicago, instead of being the third Bohemian city of the world in point of population, shall have become the first."

Deneen Receives Statue for State.

The statue was presented to the park by V. Sedlacek, president of the memorial association, and was received by William Kolacek, president of the west park board, who in turn presented it to the state in the person of Gov. Deneen.

Prof. Jaroslav J. Zmrhal, principal of the Ericsson school, paid a tribute in English to Havlicek and other Bohemian heroes in the struggle for liberty, and Jaroslav Kosar paid a similar tribute in Bohemian. E. St. Vraz, representing the Bohemian-American National council, also spoke in Bohemian and a large male chorus sang.

GATES' CONDITION GRAVE; PNEUMONIA IS ADVANCING.

Physician Says Danger Is Not Immediate, However—Cooler Weather Factor in Favor of American.

PARIS, July 30.—The condition of John W. Gates tonight continues grave. Dr. Goss, the attending physician, said that the pneumonia, which yesterday was confined to the left lung, is beginning to attack the right lung. Nevertheless the physician considers that the danger is not immediate.

Moderation of the heat wave tonight was a factor in Mr. Gates' favor. However, it will be several days before the doctors can say whether his recovery is probable.

Dr. Tissier, a heart specialist, made an examination this afternoon and found the organ acting satisfactorily. The patient's strength has been sapped by the strain of his long illness.

KING TO HEAR VETO PLANS.

Asquith, in Meeting on Wednesday, Will Tell Ruler Program Which He Will Follow.

LONDON, July 30.—The king is expected to receive Mr. Asquith on Wednesday. By that time the prime minister will be in a position to acquaint his majesty with the arrangements that have been made for carrying through the veto bill.

The little band of insurgents under the leadership of the Earl of Halsbury are trying to excite the country.

As Lord Lansdowne has the support of some 350 members of the house of lords, he is not likely to be greatly disturbed.

Onwentsia Tennis Finals Make Season's Gayest Day.

THE tennis finals brought to Onwentsia club one of the gayest days in the summer's history last Saturday. Every table was taken for both the luncheon and dinner parties and in the evening the dinner was followed by music and dancing.

The largest company of the day was entertained by Frederic McLaughlin, who was host to sixty friends at dinner. Miss Marion Deering, who is here from New York spending the summer with her sister, Mrs. Richard Ely Danielson, in Evanston, had a dinner company of ten and Mr. and Mrs. John A. Stevenson (Phoebe Eckels) entertained fourteen.

C. G. Comstock, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Rutter, J. E. May, and Mr. and Mrs. D. R. McLennan each entertained a party of a half dozen friends; Mrs. J. S. Dunham, J. W. Gary, E. A. Russell, Mrs. John Farson, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter R. Kirk had companies of eight; Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Bigelow, Le Grand Burton, and A. W. Houston had four guests each; W. C. Larned was host to fourteen; Mrs. W. H. Merrill hostess to nine; J. W. Wakem had seven guests; Frances Johnson 14, and F. O. Melchers ten.

Earlier in the day Mrs. J. C. Clow had a party of six and Mrs. W. E. Clow, four, Mrs. J. H. Hamline entertained ten, Mrs. C. W. Dempster four, Miss Emily Larned six, Thomas Taylor five, Mrs. A. A. Carpenter Jr. five, Mrs. C. E. Pope six, Mrs. Arthur Meeker six, Mrs. C. C. Yoe six, and Mrs. B. A. Eckhart four.

The marriage of Miss Elizabeth Ducat, daughter of the late Gen. and Mrs. Arthur C. Ducat, and Dr. Thomas C. Chalmers of New York will take place tomorrow afternoon at the residence of the bride's sister, Mrs. Malcolm MacGregor, "Lindenwald," Downer's Grove. The wedding will be a quiet one, owing to the recent death of the bride's aunt, Miss Elizabeth Lyon of Chicago.

Mr. and rMs. Godfrey C. Willis of Champaign, Ill., announce the engagement of their daughter, Edith Charlotte, to Rudolph Max Kauffmann, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Kauffmann of Washington, D. C. The bride-to-be is known to many Chicagoans.

Mrs. William H. Goodridge of Kentucky, accompanied by her small daughter, Elizabeth Dell, is visiting her aunt, Mrs. Louis H. Manson, on Sheridan road. As Virginia Finch, a well known southern beauty, Mrs. Goodridge spent much of her time with Mr. and Mrs. Manson before her marriage and has many friends in Chicago. She expects to be here two or three weeks.

Mrs. Theodore Jacobs and daughter, Edna Ruth, of 4516 Grand boulevard, have gone to Ottawa Beach, Mich., to spend the remainder of the summer.

W. J. Sinclair, 457 Deming place, will sail for Europe on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Godfrey C. Willis of Champaign, ter, Bonnafred, of 4559 Greenwood avenue, have left Chicago for a motor trip to the Atlantic coast.

Miss Jeannette Brunswick, who has spent the last few weeks at Ottawa Beach, Mich., has returned to her residence at 4826 Calumet avenue.

Mrs. E. H. Spangenberg, 6647 Minerva avenue, is in Ludington, Mich., a guest of Mrs. Guy Moore at the latter's summer cottage, "Point Comfort," on Hamlin lake.

Mrs. S. Schwarzchild of 3517 Rhodes avenue is spending the summer in the east. She will be joined by her daughter, Mrs. Eugenie R. Sender, and small daughter, Beatrice, this month. Together they will visit New York, New Jersey, and other eastern states.

Mrs. Daniel L. Madden will return to her apartment at 3316 West Monroe street this week, bringing with her her infant twin babies. Mrs. Madden's mother, Mrs. F. J. Hanrahan, has rented her residence on West Adams street and will spend the winter with her daughter.

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Sarah Hazel Cox of Fairmount, Ill., and George O. Morrison Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. George O. Morrison of 6021 Jefferson avenue, Chicago, which took place on Thursday, July 20, in Fairmount. Dana Morrison served his brother as best man and Miss Nellie Olbert, a cousin of the bride, was the maid of honor. Mr. and Mrs. Morrison left for northern Michigan on their honeymoon. Their future residence will be in Chicago.

Mrs. Ella Lorch, 4852 Prairie avenue, announces the engagement of her daughter, Wilma, to S. Augustus Morris of this city. At home Sunday afternoon and evening, Aug. 6.

Mrs. Clarence H. Wieneke, 242 South Kenilworth avenue, Oak Park, will be hostess at a luncheon to be given for sixteen friends on Wednesday.

Miss Lena K. Boerner and Thomas C. Donley, both of Kenosha, Wis., but with many friends in Chicago, slipped quietly away from their home town on Saturday and came to Chicago to be married. They were accompanied by their parents and chose the city for the celebration of their wedding service to avoid the rice in Kenosha.

The ceremony was performed at 5 o'clock on Saturday at the Holy Name cathedral. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Boerner and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Donley of Kenosha.

After a few days at the La Salle hotel they will return to Kenosha to reside. The groom attended school in Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Klein, 2932 Poplar avenue, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary on Sunday, July 23, at their residence. Ten great-grandchildren and twenty-two grandchildren were among the guests.

Mrs. Fred F. Lawrence of Ottawa, Ill., announces the engagement of her daughter Helen to Max Murdock of Streator.

Miss Susan Glaspell, the novelist, was the guest of Miss Martha S. Baker at a supper given in the latter's studio in Pierson street last night. She came to Chicago recently from her home in Davenport, Ia.

Members of the Edgewater Hunt club were guests of Jack Diehl of Edison Park at a lawn supper Saturday evening.

B. B. Johnson of Chicago is in New York for a few days and is staying at the Hotel Wolcott.

Tours Wisconsin for Suffragets.

Dr. Annie E. Blount, former president of the Oak Park Woman's Suffrage club, now vice president of the Illinois state organization for suffrage, will leave today for Milwaukee, where she starts on an extensive speaking tour of Wisconsin in interest of the suffrage campaign.

Dr. Blount will be accompanied by Miss Ada James, president of the Wisconsin suffrage organization, and other prominent women. She will speak from an automobile.

Mrs. Blount has been in the hospital for several months and will go out on this tour on crutches.

Crowds Attend Methodist Campmeeting Services.

THE climax of the Methodist campmeeting at Desplaines was reached yesterday, when more than 5,000 persons attended the various services. The sound of song and prayer continued from 6 o'clock in the morning until 10 o'clock in the evening. The Rev. W. J. Hyde, evangelist of the City Missionary society, was in charge of the early services. Dr. William Macafee, district superintendent of the Chicago southern district, became the leader at the love feast at 8:30 o'clock, and continued as the presiding officer throughout the day.

A dramatic situation occurred when an overzealous visitor, misinterpreting a reported address made by the Rev. M. G. Jackson, pastor of Chicago Lawn Methodist church, denounced the minister's attitude on the Bible. He accused Dr. Jackson of destroying the Bible and heaped anathemas on him as a higher critic. Dr. Macafee called him to account.

"I guess that brother," Dr. Macafee said, "never heard a word of Dr. Jackson's address. This meeting is not a meeting for discussion but for testimony and for the relation of personal experience."

Watermelons, raised on the sandy bank of a railroad track, were used by Bishop W. A. Quayle, Oklahoma, who preached the morning sermon, as an illustration of the nature of miracles and of the law by which men are instructed not to philosophize about the gospel, but to partake of its benefits and rejoice.

"We have not had a good rain in Oklahoma," Bishop Quayle said, "for two years. How then could this watermelon pump itself full of water? It was nothing less than one of God's miracles. Instead of philosophizing about the impossibility of a watery watermelon growing in a dry and parched land we simply turned in and ate it.

"We are not set to the defense of Christianity by explaining miracles, but by the perception of miracles."

Bishop Quayle, it was announced, will preach today at 10:30 o'clock. The camp meeting will close this evening with a union sacramental service.

Plans of Forward Movement.

LAKE GEORGE, N. Y., July 30.—[Special.]—Representing for the first time in history, concerted action of all Protestant denominations, backed by the most prominent business men of the United States and Canada, final preparations were completed here for the launching of the men and religion forward movement.

Its object is to bring a new type of gospel to the North American continent. Social service will be the slogan of an eight months' continental campaign to be launched at Minneapolis early in October, to include the seventy-five largest cities of the United States and Canada.

Prominent denominational leaders assembled here, after a two years' study of the American social and spiritual unrest, are convinced that they have found the cause of the weakness of the present day church and how to remedy it. The men and religion movement campaign is the result of their investigations.

"The modern church must either run from its plain duty or come out on the firing line and fight for a new vision of the brotherhood of man," said Fred B. Smith of the international Y. M. C. A. committee, the campaign leader.

Dr. I. J. Lansing, head of the reform bureau of Washington, who will be one of the prominent speakers in the campaign, said:

"It is not enough for the gospel to make a regenerated man: it must help him to make a regenerated society. Unless it can aid him to make a better environment for himself and his neighbor, it cannot be a virile force in modern life."

Raymond Robins, a social worker of Chicago, said:

"Too many of our churches are like a street car with the trolley off: if they are to use their power they must get their trolleys back on the circuit. The have wonderful power to do big things; the trouble is that they are not connected up right. They must learn that it is not enough to reclaim the individual; they must reclaim the neighborhood and city in which he lives.

"Every problem affecting the social environment of today should be a problem of the church: the relation of capital and labor, the slums, corrupt government, disease breeding milk supply, life crushing tenements, tuberculosis, our disjointed school system, question of our boys and girls."

The continental campaign of the men and religion forward movement will emphasize six central features: Social service, boys' work, community extension, educational evangelism, missions, and Bible study.

The denominational organizations participating in the campaign are Baptist Brotherhood, Brotherhood of Andrew and Philip, Brotherhood of Disciples of Christ, Brotherhood of St. Andrew, Congregational Brotherhood of America, Gideons, International Sunday School association, international committee of Young Men's Christian associations, Lutheran Brotherhood, Methodist Brotherhood, Otterbein Brotherhood of the United Brethren church, Presbyterian Brotherhood of America, United Presbyterian Brotherhood.

Derides Old Ideas of Hell.

Galesburg, Ill., July 30.—[Special]—Five thousand persons at the Chautauqua meeting this afternoon heard Pastor Russell of Brooklyn assail the old doctrines about the future life and hell. He declared there is a chance for all mankind to be saved.

The speaker said infidelity is making inroads as never before.

"All of our great colleges," he said, "are preaching infidelity, not the blatant kind, but that of a more insidious nature. Nearly all the graduates now leaving the colleges are unbelievers and affected with that subtle form of infidelity known as higher criticism.

"Many thinking people have thrown away their faith in the Bible because they feel that the doctrines taught in the past ages and the doctrines of the Bible are the same. They are out of sympathy with the creeds of the past, and believing these are founded on the Bible, discard both."

Pastor Russell held that the doctrine which condemns a large portion of the human race from the beginning of man on earth to purgatory or hell is responsible for this modern infidelity.

Plan World Church Campaign.

St. Paul, Minn., July 30.—The executive committee of the "men and religion movement" was in session in St. Paul today for the purpose of planning a world wide campaign for a more material religion which is to be launched from the Twin Cities on Oct. 1.

"This movement is intended to enlist men of all churches," said A. J. Nason, one of the committee. "It is not a revival, it is merely a compaign for better conditions socially, morally, and mentally. The movement was started two years ago in New York by business men who became impressed with the fact that the churches in many instances failed to appeal to the men.

Pastor Decides Not to Resign.

The Rev. Cyrus H. Heywood, pastor of Wentworth Avenue Baptist church, two weeks ago announced his intention of accepting a call to a more lucrative position, and tendered his resignation yesterday at the morning service. By unanimous vote it was not accepted and Mr. Heywood withdrew the resignation.

Theaters.

BY PERCY HAMMOND.

Mr. W. A. Brady's plans for the coming season teem with uplifting aspiration. Miss Grace George's repertory at the Playhouse in New York will, Mr. Brady avers, include "The Earth," by James Bernard Fagan, Shakspeare's "Much Ado About Nothing," and revivals of "Divorçons," "Pygmalion and Galatea," "The School for Scandal," and comedies by Molière and Congreve. There will also be plays by Granville Barker and Miss Cicely Hamilton. In Miss George's company two interesting importations from London will appear—the Messrs. Alan Ainesworth and Lyn Harding.

Mr. Brady's enterprise further will include Mr. Mantell in "Charlemagne the Conqueror" and possibly "The O'Flynn," both by Justin Huntley McCarthy; James K. Hackett in plays by Echegeray and James Bernard Fagan; Douglas Fairbanks in "A Gentleman of Leisure"; Charles Richman—who has been included among the Drama Players—in "Bought and Paid For," by George Broadhurst; "The God of the Mountain," by Lord Dunsany; "The Best People," by Frederick Lonsdale; "The Right to Live," by Jules Eckert Goodman; "In God's Country," by Howard Talbot; "Who's Who," a farce; "The Violet Widow," by Miss Dorothy Usner, and "The Merry Bachelor," anonymous.

At the Play House in Lake Forest next Thursday evening Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Aldis will present "A Pot of Broth," by William Butler Yeats, and "The Shadow of the Glen," by J. M. Synge. Mr. Yeats' play will be acted by Mr. William Hubbard, Mr. Henry Rumsey, and Mr. Murry Nelson Jr. In "The Shadow of the Glen" the players will be Mrs. Aldis, Mr. J. Dorr Bradley, Mr. Charles Atkinson, and Mr. Benjamin Carpenter.

After the run of "An Everyday Man," which begins at the Cort Aug. 19, Mr. Frazee will present at that theater a farce known as "Modest Suzanne," by Jean Gilbert and George Okonkowsky; and Henry E Dixey in "The Greyhound," by Messrs. Armstrong and Mizner, authors of "The Deep Purple." Mr. Frazee has obtained from Mr. W. J. Locke the right to dramatize "The Glory of Clementina."

Mr. Shubert predicts the production in September at one of his Chicago theaters of a new operetta entitled "The Queen of the Night," the music of which is by Franz Lehar and the book by Paul M. Potter.

Maj. Glover of the Majestic has enticed Miss Fay Templeton from her retirement in Pittsburg and she will be seen here in October in a small musical comedy. A tour of seven weeks will follow, but it is stipulated by Miss Templeton that she is not to appear in New York, her former home, or Pittsburg, her present one.

Miss Fannie Brice, the eccentric comedienne of "The Follies of 1911," seeks a legal separation from her husband, Mr. Frank White, a barber in Schenectady, N. Y. While this action is not unique, Miss Brice's explanation to the court is not without its novel angle. "I married him," she said, naïvely, "to kill time."

Mr. Hubert Henry Davies, the English playwright, who is known for his "The Mollusc," "Cousin Kate," "Mrs. Gorringe's Necklace," and other sprightly comedies of English life, will sail for New York from Liverpool on Aug. 9 in response to an invitation from Mr. John Drew, whose guest Mr. Davies will be at Easthampton, L. I. Mr. Davies will remain in America until the first performance of his newest play, "A Single Man," in which Mr. Drew will appear at the Empire theater Sept. 4. It was in that theater, thirteen years ago, that Mr. Davies, English born, but at that time, struggling as a newspaper writer in America, had his first play produced. As a one act comedy "Mrs. Gorringe's Necklace"—since made successful as an entire evening's bill by Sir Charles Wyndham—was performed by the students of the Empire School of Acting. The single performance of that one act piece was the sum of Mr. Davies' battle of eight years for recognition in America as a playwright. Most of that period was lived in San Francisco, where he worked for various newspapers until the playgoing world first got to know him through his delightful comedy, "Cousin Kate," acted in this country by Miss Barrymore in 1903. It was also in a Hubert Henry Davies comedy, "Cynthia," that Miss Harrymore made her London debut as a star at Wyndham's theater, May 16, 1904.

Mr. Drew will again have Miss Mary Boland as his leading woman next season, and Miss Thais Lawton, a part of the New theater flotsam, will be in the cast.

"Preserving Mr. Panmure," the only comedy written by Sir Arthur Pinero since "The Wife Without a Smile," will be played in New York Oct. 23 under Mr. Frohman's direction by a cast of American and English actors. In the play Mr. Panmure is preserved from the consequences of having violently kissed Josepha, his daughter's governess. It pleased the London theatergoers for a time as presented by Messrs. Dion Boucicault, Arthur Playfair, and Miss Marie Lohr at the Comedy theater, though many of the critics objected to its superfluously ugly details and slight defects of taste.

Mr. F. C. Whitney announces that he has abandoned his plan to produce Strauss' "Der Rosenkavalier," although he has spent $50,000 in advance royalties and production expenses. The explanation is that it would cost $75,000 more to produce the opera properly—an outlay considered too vast for these parlous times in the theater.

Mr. Tyler's portfolio contains four plays garnered in Europe during the summer, from which Mr. Walker Whiteside will make a selection for next season. The lot includes "a romantic comedy, a modern drama, a comedy of manners, and a play of the period of Henry VIII."

Mr. George Beban, a popular imitator of exaggerated French and Italian types, has engaged himself to the Messrs. Klaw & Erlanger for services in their employ as a star.

Since the rise and fall of Mr. Jack Norworth's mustache was deemed worthy of considerable space in the newspapers of Chicago, the diary of the summer days of another player, Mr. John Mason, may also be of import. It is contained in a letter from Mr. Mason at Slasconset and says:

"I am up every morning at 7; play eighteen holes of golf at 9; swim at 11:30; dine at 1; rest one hour; play croquet, tennis, or more golf from 2:30 till 4; pinochle with Robert Hilliard from 4:15 till 6; light supper at 6:30; bowling alley from 8 till 9; one lemonade at 9:15; into bed anywhere from 9:30 to 10.

"Here is a simple and inexpensive life, and it has made of me a new man after my hard season. I must quote, though not with such excessive fervor: 'Out of the ashes of my manhood, has re-arisen my youth; my youth, which I thought I had said good-by to forever! But lo! the divine child has again run to meet me with outstretched arms and shining eyes, and the summer wind in its hair.'

"Very pretty that, isn't it?

"Yours always, JOHN MASON.

"P. S.—I may add that the most expensive part of the day is pinochle time."

Roasts Covent Garden Productions.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, July 30.—The Covent Garden finished last night a long and brilliant season with a performance of "Thais." The great success of the season has been the Russian ballet, which filled the house at every performance. The season, from an artistic point of view, has brought forth considerable murmuring, which the Saturday Review voices when it says:

"No one can accuse the syndicate of betraying its trust when no one ever trusted it. The Garden might long before now have been the first opera house in Europe; now it is the laughing stock. It might at the least have brought out a few fresh operas instead of waiting until they had their freshness worn off in America and on the continent.

"The syndicate possesses an artistic body not willing to see the theater turned into a meeting place for society people and their hangers-on; not in the least desirous of making use of prima donnas and tenors who have already made reputations. Yet only such singers are brought here as have already won fame abroad. What genuine star has the syndicate ever discovered?

"Why was 'Thais' given or 'Suzanna's Secret' or 'The Golden Girl'? Only because they had been given elsewhere and it was supposed they would draw. When one reckons up what has been done for true opera one finds nothing.

"When the directors reckon up what they have made in hard cash they will chuckle. Let us have more gala nights, more coronations. They will cry let music go hang."

Woman and Her Interests.

Lillian Russell's Beauty Secrets.

Beauty from Sixteen to Sixty.

BY LILLIAN RUSSELL.

[Copyright: 1911: By Lillian Russell.]

DO NOT think because youth has fled that you no longer can be beautiful.

Beauty, as well as love, is not alone a question of the calendar.

Most beautiful women today are over 30, and some are perilously near 60, and she who neglects her personal appearance at any time in her life is making quite as great a mistake as she who neglects to cultivate her kindness of heart or broadness of mental outlook.

Whether you are young or old you need all the charms you can find in your physical makeup. Your eyes must not be allowed to grow dim; your mouth must be curled up, your skin freshened, and your hair made to gleam.

So many women seem to think because they have brains they do not need good looks, and their frowsy locks, muddy complexions, and flabby skin neutralize any good impressions they might make before they have time to enter into a conversation which would reveal their other abilities.

The next time you go downtown in a street car look the women over and decide in your own mind how their personal appearance might be improved by caring for it. This one's hair needs washing; that one's locks need an invisible net to restrain them; a number show ugly teeth, and—O, must it be told?—some of them have dirty faces—not just the dust of the day's shopping excursion but the accumulated dirt that shows in ugly brown streaks and blackheads.

A great many women do not understand that just washing the face with soap and water does not clean it thoroughly if they live in the grime, dust, and smoke of the city; it must be scrubbed thoroughly and then given an extra cleansing with my skin and it is the best flesh food.

Never use a cold cream that does not agree with your face. Often this will make ugly blackheads and also produce a crop of pimples. Vegetable oils are the best to use, although I personally like to add a bit of lanolin to every cream that I use, as I have found it to agree with my skin and it is the best flesh good.

Especially as one grows older a good flesh food is necessary, and a more careful scrutiny of one's face should be made every day.

Each year in a woman's life has its own beauty, which should be cultivated assiduously, and the woman who realizes this is the one whose charm will linger with her as long as she lives.

Remember, it is the clever woman that replaces the charm of youth with the ripened beauty of maturity.

Lillian Russell's Answers.

L. F. W.: Worry is a deadly foe of beauty. When you say that you cannot overcome the worry habit you are wrong. If you have faith, to worry is contrary to your religious belief, a thing that seldom strikes even the most devout. To worry is to lack faith in the goodness of the Creator. Worry about small things is frequently nothing but a habit, and like all bad habits, it can be broken. Get rid of that old age thought. Become interested in something outside of yourself and the rapid passing of the years. When you look in the mirror, don't look too closely for the wrinkles and gray hairs unless you are getting ready to remedy them. Look for your good points; it is more encouraging and cheering and sends you away from the mirror with a pleasant expression on your face. I am sending you by mail recipes for the glove paste for softening and whitening the hands and for the skin food which I have used or twenty years and an excellent tonic for dry hair.

A BEADER: To arrest excessive perspiration in the palms of the hands, apply the following lotion two or three times a day: Six ounces rosewater, two ounces elderflower water, one-half ounce tincture of benzoin, and ten grains of tannic acid. I am sending you by mail the recipe for a fragrant glove paste for whitening and smoothing the hands.

MRS. B.: The usual cause of hives is an irritation of the digestive system. Certain foods are particularly apt to cause an outbreak of it: shellfish, sausage, mushrooms, oatmeal, rice, berries, and buttermilk. The diet should be simple, consisting of bread and milk, with soup or broth. A dose of castor oil, Epsom salts, or Rochelle salts is sometimes beneficial. For sponging, cold water is sometimes all that is needed. Equal parts of vinegar and water may allay the itching. A dram of alcohol and four ounces of water makes a good lotion. Thank you for your good wishes and your generous expression of appreciation for the little beauty sermons.

GRACE: At night bathe the bust in warm water, using a pure, mild soap; rinse thoroughly in tepid water; dry carefully and gently manipulate the flesh, going in little circles for five minutes. This stimulates the circulation and puts the pores in a receptive condition. Now take a generous amount of cocoa butter on the finger tips and massage gently for ten or fifteen minutes. In the morning dash hot and cold water alternately upon the bust.

HOPE: Thank you for your kind wishes and generous words of appreciation. I am glad my little sermons have helped you. If you will massage the red spots left by the pimples every night for several weeks they will disappear. If you will send me a self-addressed stamped envelope and letter asking me for it I will send you the recipe for the skin food which I have used with massage for many years.

MISS EVELYN: I am sending you by mail the recipe for an inexpensive tonic for stimulating the growth of the eyebrows and eyelashes. You should take up golf. The walking in golf exercises the lower limbs and it will develop your thighs and calves. Do not make the mistake of attempting to play too many holes when beginning. Nine holes will make a fair beginning. At the end of the season, if you are persistent in your efforts, eighteen is the average number. But you must determine how you feel and not exhaust your strength, a thing new players are likely to do because of the invigorating effects thus produced. Rest when you are tired, for in this manner you retain the good that has been gained.

ANXIOUS: If you will send me a letter, with a self-addressed, stamped envelope, I will send you the recipe for a good curling fluid. Do not use the curling iron to wave your hair, for it will cause the hair to break and wither. If you have never used the old-fashioned kid curlers I wish you would give them a trial. If you will put the hair up on the wavers at night, first slightly dampening it with the curling fluid, in the morning you will have an exceedingly pretty wave which will remain several days.

Mushroom Recipes.

A REALLY learned man, one whom we may safely call a savant, who claims to be a faithful reader of this column, criticised what was said the other day on the subject of mushrooms because it was nearly all quotations. Emerson says something to the effect that we should not go out of our way to use the words of another, but that when he is traveling our way and has a finer outfit than our own we should not hesitate to accept his hospitality. Some people will, some will not. It is largely a matter of taste.

It is only cooks who spend a lifetime learning who know all foods and how best to use and prepare them, and even such may not know everything. And even they may feel that it is pleasant to shift the responsibility off on to the shoulders of some one else even when a particular formula happens to be but a trifle different from their own.

As to mushrooms, it cannot be too emphatically said that it is not safe to give advice that by any chance may be indiscriminating. No test has proved infallible. If an onion changes color in a dish of mushrooms they are surely bad, but is the claim that it always will reliable?

Even the mushrooms of the market may not always be safe and may need to be examined with the microscope in order to discover in them the presence of small worms deep in the flesh. These worms, beneath the skin and not visible to the naked eye, are positively poisonous, says one who knows more about them than I do.

Last summer it was discovered that "ink caps," or "shaggy mane" mushrooms, which many people eat wwith pleasure and without evil results, produced in many cases strange effects either immediately or some hours after they were eaten. Those who had eaten these mushrooms appeared to be intoxicated. They were drowsy, bloodshot of eye, talked incoherently, could hardly stand, and could not walk. There were other strange effects but no prostrations.

It was suggested that the mushrooms had been wilted by the sun. They should, like manna—which some people believe was a mushroom—be gathered early in the day, when strictly fresh.

Mushrooms are nitrogenous, like meat, and spoil almost as quickly under similar conditions.

It is not only the mushrooms that are by nature poisonous that are unsafe. Others may be if they are not properly cared for or if, like fruit, sometimes they have become infested with worms. Amateur growers have lost their crop for this latter reason.

Mushrooms are only safe for people who know them. Other people who would indulge would best (or surest) patronize the can, and theer are some things to be said against mushrooms in cans.

Calf's Liver with Celery and Mushrooms.—Cut one-half pound of calf's liver so that the pieces will be as nearly the shape of chickens' livers as possible. Boil ten minutes. Put one onion, sliced thin, in a frying pan with a small piece of butter and brown; add one-third of a can of mushrooms which have been chopped coarsely. Stir into this one heaping tablespoon of flour and then add enough water to make a gravy the consistency of cream sauce. Season with salt and pepper to taste. Cook in salted water one cup of celery, cut in half inch pieces, until tender, and season. Place celery in center of platter with a tablespoon of melted butter on top. Around this arrange triangles of buttered toast, on which place the liver and pour over it the mushroom sauce.—Mrs. A. R. Delaney, Highland Park, Ill.

Note.—In the following recipe a small piece of beef tenderloin is used. There are three grades of this cut of meat. The first grade the butchers will not cut, but they will cut the other grades.

Beef Tenderloin with Mushrooms.—Cut one and one-half pounds of beef tenderloin into four slices; trim, season, and flour them. Try out some beef fat in a frying pan, add a scant teaspoon of butter to it, and fry the meat in this for four minutes, turning often. Cover and let stand for three minutes more. Lay on platter and serve with mushrooms prepared as follows: Wash and peel one-fourth of a pound of fresh mushrooms, cut into small pieces, and simmer in one teaspoonful of butter for fifteen minutes. Have ready when meat is done. Put one teaspoonful of flour and three-fourths of a cup of boiling water into the frying pan in which the meat was cooked, add the mushrooms, season to taste, and cover the steak with this thick gravy.—Anna Karstens, 3040 Washington boulevard.

The Variations in Love.

BY LAURA JEAN LIBBEY.

[Copyright: 1911: By Laura Jean Libbey.]

THE young man who has had the experience of one sweetheart and has been cut out by a luckier fellow should not pin himself down to the conviction, as he jogs along through life, that all women love alike.

Where one girl is a merry, teasing sprite, another may be equally as bashful.

Where one is a flirt, another might be only too glad to have one young man all her own, never giving a thought to another.

One girl might be voluble in expressing her sentiments toward him and another girl might be quite as fond of him—her eyes eloquently expressing that which her lips were too maidenly to utter. One girl might be influenced by his position, veering like the wind with his rise and fall in the world.

Another might cling to him, holding his love above all earthly gain. There is as much difference in the love of women as there are different women on the face of the earth. It may safely be said that there are no two lovers alike. Even the affections of twins are unlike in their object as well as manner of expressing their tender emotions.

A man should expect every girl whom he meets to be just the opposite from the one whom he courted last.

No two girls have exactly the same taste in all matters; why, then, should they be supposed to regard love through the same rosy light?

A girl's temperament has everything to do with her heart affair. Her environments have their influence, as have also the influence of her friends.

The first sweetheart is not always the last. A young man may believe that he is destined to be a bachelor if one whom he thinks he likes proves false to him when he imagines that his heart has gone out to her. He may rely upon time to heal the wound, which will be found by no means deep, scarcely more than a scratch.

In looking back at old love affairs, they are like old garments of the vintage of a decade of years before. One can but laugh at their absurdities and wonder how they could ever have been dear to us. No man should take to heart the breaking off with a girl who shows she does not care for him.

He is indeed a wise philosopher who says:

The losing of one is the gaining of two,
And the choice of a baker's dozen.

If a young girl to whom you are introduced does not invite you to call at the time of the does not invite you to cal at the time of the first meeting do not be downhearted over that.

A poor beginning in love generally ends favorably. Whereas, the girl who insists upon your calling the next evening after you have been presented to her you will find the one most likely to be entertaining half a dozen beaux upon reaching her door.

Every man should be a persistent wooer. He should not be discouraged with good endeavors, but remember the old adage, to which I add a prefix [begging pardon of the poet for same]: "If you do not succeed in winning one heart, try elsewhere and again, and yet again." "All's well that ends well." You will find at last the one woman whose love is like no other love.

An Appreciation.

To Miss Libbey:

If ever loman lived,
With nobler work to do
Than our Dear Miss Libbey,
So patient and so true,
I'd give a lot to know her,
My friends, now wouldn't you?
When down temptation's pathway
We are inclined to stray,
She reaches out a tender hand,
Says, "Come, there is a better way."
She takes that grand word "Honor,"
Holds it before our eyes,
Says, "Look not down nor backward,
The goal still onward lies."
She cheers the broken hearted,
The lover fond and true,
Whose sweetheart dear is fickle.
She tells him what to do.
The vain and foolish maiden,
Who never knew real love,
She sends a bit of common sense
That fits her like a glove.
May friends and love be ever near,
And God protect our Auntie dear,
Love and best wishes now I send,
Three cheers for Auntie, from A FRIEND.

He Nagged Her.

"Dear Miss Libbey: Will appreciate an answer to this very much: I have lost the friendship of a girl who is very dear to me. Some time ago she had fully returned my affection, but a disagreement came up, caused by my constant nagging about some one. At times she still seems friendly, and at others she is very indifferent. Kindly advise me how to regain her esteem and affection. WORRIED."

By being as courteous and considerate to her as you know how.

* *

They Quarrel.

"Dear Miss Libbey: I have been going with a young girl for several months. The first few months I went with her she was very affectionate to me. She is not so much now. We also quarrel continually. But I do not think it is because there is a disliking between us. "S. L. H."

If she does not mend her foolish ways you better get another girl. No fun at all in fighting. Perhaps she does not realize that she is quarreling.

Send the Pin Back.

"Dear Miss Libbey: Last Christmas my girl gave me a tie pin. In the last few weeks we have parted. Is it proper for me now to wear the pin? HOWARD."

Send the pin back to her Howard.

Round About Chicago.

A Newspaper Tragedy.

BY RICHARD HENRY LITTLE.

STEEVER, said the city editor proudly, was a man who always returned with the goods. Other reporters would at times go out on a story and forget to come back; never Steever. The city editor admitted that Steever at times became much exhilarated from gazing too long at things served across bars, but always in the back of his brain was some sort of an instinct like that of the homing pigeon that would prompt him at last to spread his wings and fly back to the old home roost.

The city editor firmly believed that if, when Steever was out on a story, he should be drugged, chloroformed, beaten to an unrecognizable mass and chained in a sack in the bottom of the Thirty-ninth street intercepting sewer, he would nevertheless burst asunder his bonds promptly at 11 o'clock and, gaining the surface of the ground, would gallop without ceasing until he reached the office.

The city editor believed more than this. He didn't talk about it, but he believed it. He was firmly convinced that if he sent Steever out to cover some big news happening and that after he got the story Steever was to meet a violent death and be buried, at exactly 11 o'clock he would kick the lid off his coffin and, digging fiercely with his hands, would be out of his grave and in the office in time to write his story for the first edition.

With a reputation like this, it naturally caused the city editor no concern when 7 o'clock came one evening and Steever had not reported on the big scoop that he had been sent out to bring back dead or alive.

The assistant city editor fussed around a good deal, but the city editor merely smiled. He knew Steever. Eight o'clock came, and still nothing from the absent Steever. The city editor smiled again and said that the story was certainly going to be a big one; Steever was following out some side issues—he was cleaning the whole thing right up. Nine o'clock, and still nothing from Steever. The assistant city editor dashed into the city editor's room to say that Bippers, one of the cubs, had seen Steever about 5 o'clock in the afternoon over at Dugan's saloon trying to sing "Good Night, Ladies," in three languages.

"I don't doubt it," said the city editor; "what of it?"

STEEVER WAS A SAND HILL CRANE

"What of it?" shrieked the assistant city editor, "what of it? Why, man, we've lost the story."

"I don't see why you say that," murmured the city editor softly.

The assistant city editor looked as if he were going to break down and cry, and the city editor softened and explained.

"I know Steever," said the city editor; "he will be back to the office and write a story for the first edition."

The assistant city editor couldn't answer. He just went out in the hall and kicked a man who said he used to do night police on the Painted Post, Neb., Bugle Call, who had come up to borrow a dime.

It was 11 o'clock when Steever came at last into the office. The city editor saw him, smiled a glad sweet smile of welcome and went over to the assistant city editor and said: "You are a good newspaper man, but you are a poor student of human nature."

The assistant city editor looked heartily ashamed of himself and tried to crawl in the wastepaper basket. Steever came in the door very carefully. It was a wide door, but, careful as Steever was, he hit both sides of it. Then Steever, by careful zigzag tacking, approached the city editor's desk, stepping with great caution on his toes.

"I am a sand hill crane," explained Mr. Steever, "and I should like to make a nest in your hair where I can rear my young."

"We're waiting for the defaulting bank cashier story, Mr. Steever," said the city editor. "That is your story. Did you land it?"

Steever looked up as quickly as if a shock from a galvanic battery had gone through his body. "Yes," he said, "I cleaned up on it. How much?"

"Two columns and more, if you need it," answered the city editor.

Steever walked quietly into the real estate editor's room, where he always worked when he had a big story so that he could be alone, the real estate editor going home to Maywood at early candle light.

The city editor heard Steever's typewriter clicking away like mad. The bell that by its ringing indicated that the end of a line had been reached tinkled like a sleighbell on a frosty night.

"I'd better get Steever's story page by page," said the assistant city editor, starting for Steever's room.

"Let him alone," said the city editor, "it rattles him if he's interrupted. He's the fastest man on a typewriter I ever knew. He'll walk through that two columns quicker than you could write a couple of sticks."

So Steever wrote and wrote and the clicking of his machine was like the rattle of infantry fire and the bell sounded like an automatic burglar alarm.

"Pretty near the dead line," observed the assistant city editor nervously. "I've got to get a start on Steever's story."

"All right," said the city editor, "I've got him galted and I can tell just about what he's done. You'll find he's written a little over two columns and it will be all clean copy."

The assistant city editor went into Steever's room and came back after a while.

"Well," asked the city editor, hurriedly, "where's the story? He's written the two columns, hasn't he?"

"Yes," said the assistant city editor, "he's written the two columns and a little over."

"Then where is it?" demanded the city editor, starting to his feet.

"It's on the roller of his typewriter," said the assistant city editor sadly. "He forgot to put any paper in the machine."

URGES HUNT FOR ELECTRIC LEAKS

Bureau of Public Efficiency Says Escaping Currents Menace Water Mains.

MAYOR ACTS IN ADVANCE.

Names Consulting Engineer to Conduct Thorough Electrolysis Survey.

A complete electrolysis survey by the city authorities is recommended by the Chicago bureau of public efficiency, in a report which was made public yesterday. The recommendation comes a little late, however, as Mayor Harrison last Tuesday appointed Ray Palmer, a consulting engineer, to that task.

A preliminary investigation by the bureau of public efficiency reveals the necessity of such a survey. Electrolysis has damaged Chicago's water mains and sewers as well as the underground work of the park commissioners and the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company, the bureau's inquiry has disclosed. Electric currents from the elevated railroads and the street car systems have damaged water mains, causing them to corrode and leak, according to the report.

Would Protect New System.

"Danger from electrolysis should be removed before a high pressure water system is installed," says the report, "because the greater pressure in the new mains would have a greater tendency to burst them if they were affected by electrolytic action.

"Investigation of the cause of several recent breaks in a six inch water main in the basement of a large department store disclosed a flow of electricity from the street and elevated railways, which passed from the water mains through the structural steel to the tracks of the Illinois Tunnel company. The conditions were such as to justify the conclusion that the injury was due to electrolytic action."

The bureau recommends an immediate survey in order to determine the extent and location of damage so that conditions can be remedied.

To Trace Vagrant Currents.

The report recommends that such a survey should include:

Location of all positive (danger) and negative territory.

Examination of all water pipes found to be carrying currents, ascertaining where the current comes from, its point of departure, and where it goes.

Analysis of soil in positive districts.

Sufficient tests of railway track rails to determine their efficiency as conductors.

After obtaining this information, the report points out the city officials will be in a position to coöperate with the railway companies in adopting such measures as will reduce future damage to a minimum.

Regarding this the report says:

"The board of supervising engineers represents the city and the surface street railway companies and constitutes a ready means of coöperation with the systems operated by those companies. Although the board has gathered considerable data and has done a large amount of remedial work, much remains to be done.

Much New Track in Prospect.

"Of the 814 miles of street railway track within the city limits, only 53 per cent had been rehabilitated to Jan. 31, 1911. When all the tracks are rehabilitated the present relationship between stray currents and water mains will be radically changed, and unless the city obtains a knowledge of present conditions by a proper electrolytic survey it will be almost impossible later to get this data. The city should have a complete record of present electrolytic conditions in order to fix responsibility for injuries to mains and service pipes which may be disclosed now or in the future."

The report says that although present damaging conditions have been known to city authorities for a long time, no electrolysis survey has been made to determine the extent of the damage.

"PRAY FOR MAYOR HARRISON."

The Rev. Gilbert D. Cleworth Urges Citizens Thus to Make Chicago a Better City.

"Pray for Mayor Harrison.

"If you do this, he will make Chicago a better city. The mayor needs the daily prayers of each citizen."

So said the Rev. Gilbert D. Cleworth, pastor of the Western Avenue Methodist Episcopal church, last night in a prelude to his evening sermon. His topic was, "How to Help the Mayor."

FARWELL HITS AT BREWERS

Says Beer Makers and United Societies Foster Vice.

SEES DANGER TO YOUNG.

Charges Vast Conspiracy to Debauch School Children.

Charges that the lowest saloons in Chicago are fostered by the brewing interests, that the name "United Societies" is a mask for these interests, and that liquor is freely sold to children at bars, were made by Arthur Burrage Farwell yesterday.

"To show the relation between the breweries and the low saloons," Mr. Farwell declared in an address at the New England Congregational church of Aurora, Ill., "we have caused an examination to be made.

Checked Up on Licenses.

"The license numbers, the names of the resorts, the names of the licensees, the locations, and the bondsmen, with their brewery connections, all have been compared. In eleven cases we have found either officers of the brewery or men connected with them serving as bondsmen.

"It is customary for brewers, assembled in convention, to hold themselves above any connection with vice or vicious resorts. Our investigation shows their connection with the saloon business is one of the vilest spots in the world.

Scores United Societies.

"The United Societies, which ought to be called the United Liquor interests, have opposed any attempt to protect school children from the contamination of the saloon.

"In the Ninth, Tenth, and Ninteenth wards there are 600 saloons. One-half this territory supplied 130 violations of the minor's law in four days. And yet the bill introduced at Springfield, providing that no saloon should be within 250 feet of a school or church, was opposed by the United Societies. Is there not a conspiracy to debauch the children?"

TAXI CHAUFFEUR KEEPS JOB IN SPITE OF INHERITANCE.

Gets $11,000 from Uncle's Estate, but Says Good, Steady Work Is the Best Thing He Knows About.

Almost any one who rides in a taxicab in Chicago these days is likely to have a comparatively rich man for his chauffeur. Henry Wise, 3141 Indiana avenue, who drives a cab for a Wabash avenue concern, is the "plutocrat" in question, and the fact that his uncle's estate, just disposed of in Los Angeles, Cal., has netted him $11,000 has not turned his head or decided him to quit the automobile driving business.

"That $11,000 is planted where it can't get away," Wise said last night when he came in from his day's work. "I've lost money, money that I earned myself, in the past. This time I am going to hang on."

"Are you really going to keep on driving?" Wise was asked.

"I am. This is the best job I ever had. I am not going to lose it if I can help it."

"And your wife, what does she think about it?"

"She thinks what any woman would think," Wise declared cryptically. He explained that "any woman would think that $11,000 ought to be spent."

BOY HELD AS AUTO STEALER.

Detectives Think Prisoner Is Member of Gang That Has Appropriated Many Cars.

Fred Warman, 18 years old, 831 La Salle avenue, believed by the police to be one of a gang that for several months has been stealing automobiles, was arrested yesterday afternoon by Detective Sergeants Howe and O'Neil of the detective bureau.

He is charged with having stolen an automobile owned by S. W. Hamm, 5473 Cornell avenue, last Monday night from Michigan avenue and Van Buren street.

Howe and O'Neill found the automobile in a garage owned by L. O. Zerkle, 1730 Wells street.

Zerkle said Warman left the automobile there, saying that he wanted to rent it out.

WHAT WILL THEY DO FOR K. & K.?

What, indeed, is Caruso to do for his "K. & K." in Chicago now that Policeman John Ennis has been transferred from the door of the Auditorium theater to the Twenty-second street police station? What will Tetrazzini, Sammarco, Bassi, Melba, etc., do for their corned beef and cabbage now that Ennis is not where he may detect a craving for this heroic dish written on the operatic countenance as it passes him at the door and extend the life saving invitation to his home?

Will Caruso and Tetrazzini risk an encounter with the unworthy K. & K. to be found in cafés, or will they try to subdue an appetite for a noble dish by attacking garlic without regard for consequences? What—and here inquiry hesitates painfully—what will Mme. Schumann-Heink and Leo Slezak do for a mess of this choice food of the heroes in Valhalla?

But we borrow trouble. It may be that before Opera returns to our midst Mr. McWeeny will listen to the voice of reason and the demands of Culture and will return the purveyor of K. & K. to the door of the Auditorium and the odor of good old corned beef and cabbage will hover about the sacred precincts again.

EDWARD M. SHEPARD.

In the death of Edward Morse Shepard the cause of political reform loses a distinguished and devoted soldier. Mr. Shepard has been a persistent fighter against predatory politics in the Democratic party, although his course often was challenged by good men and sometimes puzzled those who believed in him. He fought Hill. He refused to support Mr. Bryan. He supported Seth Low for mayor of New York and later Van Wyck. Though a gold Democrat, he supported Mr. Bryan in 1899. In other words he did not hesitate to rebel against party when his convictions dictated, but worked in and through the party at other times. His career was governed by an honorable opportunism, and though he lost much in a certain momentum which may be gained from a more compliant party spirit and a more regular course, his example of courageous revolt and independent judgment must often have been useful to citizens of the more intelligent class in or out of Mr. Shepard's party.

But Mr. Shepard's service was not merely political. He was a lawyer whose public spirit was manifested in many other ways. His work as counsel for the important rapid transit commission was a conspicuous instance of valuable public service. Mr. Shepard will be greatly missed.

MR. FITZGERALD ABROAD.

Boston is doing the best it can to interpret the few brief remarks of "His Honor Honey Fitz" at Dusseldorf. It might be wiser to announce that Boston is responsible only politically for Mr. Fitzgerald. In foreign parts where American politics is supposed to contain all evils and to encompass all villainies the explanation that Fitz, his geography and all the other parts of him were products of an iniquitous system of free government would be accepted and understood.

But Boston is pulling what it can out of the wreckage of Honey Fitz's words and probably will disown the rest. The celebrated utterance of the mayor which by this time is crawling up into Tibet and is being repeated in the French Congo was:

"We are glad we came to Dusseldorf and we look forward with pleasure to our visit to the capital. From thence we will visit those other German cities, Vienna and Budapest."

As Boston points out, if Mr. Fitzgerald had spoken merely of Vienna there would be no confusion on the fitzians and no joy among the antifitzians. Vienna is a German city in everything except national organization and geography, and Honey Fitz evidently was not speaking geographically. Boston is prepared to maintain this point, but Budapest is a discomfiture.

Even allowing that the mayor suddenly became pan-Germanic in prophetic enthusiasm, Budapest remains to disturb the explainers. The superintendent of compulsory education will take possession of Mr. Fitzgerald at quarantine on his return.

ALBANIA.

Today there is going on in a certain mountain district of southeastern Europe the heroic struggle of a race against tyranny if not extinction.

The people are the Albanians. In numbers they are about 1,200,000. They are Aryans, they are Christians—Roman Catholics. They came into Europe before history began. Homer mentions them. They are a tall, handsome, intelligent people. And they are fighting, the women at the side of the men, against the ruthless Turkish soldiers of the supposedly reformed and constitutional government of Turkey.

Albania, their immemorial country, makes up part of three vilayets, or governmental districts, of Turkey, and it has been oppressed and retarded by Turkish tyranny for centuries. Although the Albanians are Caucasians and Christians, they have had to maintain themselves as well as they could by splendid fighting and heroic sacrifices against the overwhelming power of the Moslem. The selfishness and pusillanimity of European politics, the short sightedness and futility of the governments which call themselves the great powers, have left them without the support they should have received long ago in the name of humanity and in the name of real statesmanship.

A few days ago the pope issued a solemn protest against the slaughter of the Albanians. And it was a protest needed. The Turkish army has destroyed the crops, burned the villages, massacred the men and older women, and taken the younger women for the soldiers.

In the light of the twentieth century this is a hideous recrudescence of barbarism. It is a disgrace to civilized Europe and to Christendom.

But if humanity is not potent enough to induce the powers to act, at least efficient statecraft should induce them. The Albanians, oppressed and kept backward, if freed would progress and become a useful community, trading and taking a part in the civilized movement of the world. The Turks never move. They have choked progress wherever they have had the power. They have no part and are not likely ever to take part in our progress, and it is sheer waste to let them dominate a region of Europe which would prosper and develop if released from Moslem tyranny and sloth.

The Albanians are fighting specifically for the following reasonable rights: The right to their own schools and language, the right to have their taxes applied to their own needs, the right to have the Albanian soldiers kept in Albania except in case of foreign war. They ask also a non-Turkish European governor, like the governor of Crete, and a consolidation of the Albanian districts into one vilayet.

The Turkish government policy as to Albania has been either imbecile or insane. There is every reason to believe that decisive action by the European concert, if there is or can be any such concert, would stop the Albanian outrages and place the whole Balkan situation on a better and safer basis. Perhaps there is not enough solidarity in European public opinion to overcome the peanut politics of chancelleries and cabinets. Each government is afraid to act, for fear another will overreach it, and policy seems based on Disraeli's cynical axiom: "If you don't do anything you will make no mistakes."

From the standpoint of the job holder and professional "statesman" that is good policy. But from the standpoint of the common good of Europe it is cowardly extravagance, for it does not take into account the economic and social loss involved in permitting a great region of Europe to be left in a slough of despond when it might be sustaining a population peaceful, prosperous, and progressive.

LITERARY UPROAR.

War is raging in literary London over a drastic attack by the Spectator upon the English Review, perhaps the most brilliant and certainly the most advanced of British reviews. A contributor to the latter had discussed rather more candidly than is usual in England certain social conditions and problems. This offended the editor of the Spectator, which announced that the English Review would not be mentioned thereafter in its pages. The Spectator declared that it did not set up for a censor of articles published in the Review, but taken together with certain advertisements in the Review, the Spectator regarded it as a part of a deliberate policy injurious to the public weal.

This determination raised a tempest of protest, in which the Spectator as a conservative organ was accused of an attempt to persecute the Review, a radical Liberal organ. The Spectator rightly and wisely opened its own columns to the debate, the most striking contribution to which is a protest signed by the following remarkable list of notables:

Thomas Hardy,	Maurice Hewlett,
Bernard Shaw,	W. B. Yeats,
Arnold Bennett,	R. B. Cunninghame Graham,
H. G. Wells,	George Moore,
John Galsworthy,	Henry Arthur Jones,
William Somerset Maugham,	Filson Young,
Herbert Trench,	R. A. Scott-James,
W. H. Davies,	Robert Ross,
Eden Phillpotts,	C. Haldane Macfall,
W. J. Locke,	D. H. Lawrence,
Ford Madox Hueffer,	W. L. George,
T. Sturge Moore,	Frederick Niven,
May Sinclair,	Holbrook Jackson,
Francis Grierson,	Hugh Walpole,
H. Granville Barker,	Edgar Jepson,
Violet Hunt,	Morley Roberts,
Sidney Low,	Charles Marriott,
Richard Whiteing,	J. Stuart Hay,
J. Forbes-Robertson,	W. H. Koebel,
G. S. Street,	G. H. Mair,
John M. Robertson, M.P.	Darrell Figgis,
A. Neil Lyons,	J. E. Evans-Jackson,
Edward Thomas,	Alfred Stead,
W. Rothenstein,	Yoshio Markino,
Edward Hutton,	E. S. P. Haynes.

These signatories the Spectator dismisses with: "We cannot say we find the list impressive."

Among the signers Maurice Hewlett adds a proviso which can hardly be classed by the Spectator as a dissent from his associates. Mr. Hewlett writes:

I agree with and join in the protest against the Spectator's article with this modification of its terms, that I do not suppose it to have been an act of persecution. I regard it as having been inspired by that smug confidence in one's own opinion and conviction of its importance to the world at large which are still, as they have always been, common to all vulgar natures. The Spectator is not malevolent. It is a prig.

One of the advantages of a literary capital like London or Paris is that these stimulating controversies are possible. All the steam is in one cylinder.

APATHY TO HEALTH WARNINGS.

Thorough asepsis seems to be an unattainable ideal. Who knows what hands have touched the sterilized cup you are handed? What may not have contaminated it in its journey from the maker to your lips? Some one writing to a New York newspaper relates how while a grimy-handed railroad employé was selling the aluminium cups prescribed by law, a lot of immigrants in the car were slaking their thirst from a common bottle, the mouth of which was pushed against the faucet of the water cooler after each had drained the contents.

It is also recalled that some of those who preach precaution in such matters do not live up to their preachments, for Pasteur at a dinner dipped his grapes in his water glass, as he said, to remove any possibility of germs thereon, and then a little later absent mindedly drank the water.

A law which prohibits the common cup on railway trains should also prevent the contamination of the faucet by means of a bottle which has touched a dozen mouths. The act of the immigrants invalidated the law and made it ridiculous. The fact is that a majority of the people, employés and employers, are indifferent to the established facts of science. Persons reeking with deadly diseases daily walk our streets and enter our shops and homes, mingling with healthy persons who may be contaminated at any moment.

Physicians, health boards, and experts continually warn the public on matters of health and legislatures are occasionally found to pass measures protecting the people from themselves. Yet so careless are we, as a whole, that some of the simplest precautions are daily disregarded, not only by the ignorant but by the intelligent as well. It may be that absolute immunity from germ poisoning may never be attained, but as a civilized nation we should make a more concerted effort to that end. But, unless corporations and individuals awake to the necessity of such effort, laws and other warnings will be futile.

BARRICADING THE NURSERY.

The perturbed royal household in England has been obliged to barricade the nursery to keep the socially ambitious from climbing over the cradles to a semblance of royal favor. Competition is keen and a smile from a child, with proper publicity, may be converted into an asset almost as valuable as an invitation to dinner. The Assyrians in London are nearly as disturbing as the Germans in Morocco. From now on a discreet lady will be in charge of the children to see that no charming persons accompanied by photographers make their acquaintance.

Queen Mary soon will come to the conclusion that the royal residences are besieged.

WHAT we don't like about this Lorimer investigation business is that it outlasts a vacation.

FALLING naturally into reflections concerning Mr. Lorimer, however, we have a dim, nebulous suspicion that the exact moment when he really dropped his watermelon as a presumptive statesman was when he made his artless confession that Senator Aldrich was his political bellwether. You might ask some of his friends about that.

PRESENTLY some suspicious person will herald abroad the discovery that the law which banishes the public drinking cup was made in the interest of the manufacturers of folding cups.

EVEN a man of President Taft's judicial temperament can use strong language on occasion. "Wicked fabrication" conveys the charge of mendacity fully as well as "atrociously false."

THERE is a suspicion that the detectives who captured the legislative boodlers at Columbus, O., got their scheme from William Hawley Smith's book, "The Promoters." They secured the necessary evidence by using concealed electric and automatic phonographs which recorded the conversation of the boodlers while they were concocting their plans, in supposed secrecy, exactly as described in the book. At any rate, Mr. Smith beat them to it.

A CONGRESSIONAL investigation of the shoe trust, as perhaps you were about to observe, should lead to a full disclosure of the facts from the ground up.

THE fruit peddlers fought well, but fell early. They had no Marco Bozzaris.

MR. ASQUITH speaks with the careful deliberation of a man whose every word weighs a ton.

EVEN now the "Lincoln Republican league" is not quite sure that Mr. Cullom is a Lincoln Republican.

IS CONSERVATION, like the tariff, a "local issue"?

If This Be Treason——

The poor old horse, overcome by the heat, died while the brutal teamster was beating its prostrate body.

"Gone to horse heaven!" exclaimed the old gentleman with the patriarchal beard, who had elbowed his way to the center of the perspiring throng.

"So? Where is horse heaven, uncle?" inquired a bystander.

"Anywhere outside of Chicago," the old gentleman answered, elbowing his way out of the crowd.

Youthful Fruit Peddler (of foreign extraction)—Not t'day, mom. But I got some fine cant'lopes.

"Isn't that a beautiful piece of embroidery!" Mrs. Lapsling exclaimed with enthusiasm. "A friend of mine who has traveled says she saw some just like it last year in the vacuum at Rome." C. W. T.

LA MARQUISE DE FONTENOY.

[Copyright: 1911: By the Brentwood Company.]

TWO weeks after his legal renunciation of the historic titles of Duke of Gandia, Duke of Benavente, and Marquis of Javalquinte, Don Louis Bessieres, former member of the Spanish cortes, has been laid to his rest as a bourgeois.

He was buried free from the stigma of crime of counterfeiting, with which he had been charged by his wife's relatives, and which had the effect of keeping him, while still a duke, in jail for two years at Madrid, until his innocence was judicially established.

He owed his ducal titles to the fact that he had married the only daughter and heiress of the sixteenth Duke of Gandia, a title originally created in favor of the ill fated brother of Lucrezia Borgia, this first Duke of Gandia, from whom the present Duchess of Gandia is lineally descended, having been murdered by his brother, Cæsar Borgia. In Spain women who have titles in their own right convey them to their husbands by marriage, and in this way Louis Bessieres became through his wife Duke of Gandia and of Benavente.

Although their union was a love match they soon quarreled, and her relatives, who had resented her mésalliance, joined in his persecution, which resulted two years ago in his financial ruin, followed by a carefully engineered conspiracy for the purpose of incriminating him in charges of counterfeiting.

When cleared of these his wife, the Duchess of Gandia, was compelled by the pressure of public opinion to make some reparation, and this took the form of a settlement of an allowance of $20,000 a year upon him, on the understanding that he would give up her name and titles, which he had obtained through marrying her. Her father was the thirteenth Duke of Ossuna, a title now borne by his nephew, Don Mariano Tellez Giren.

Lord Allendale, who has just been transformed by King George from a baron into a viscount, is captain of the yeomen of the guard, and has an American sister-in-law, wife of his younger brother, Hubert, member of parliament for Eastbourne, Mrs. Hubert Beaumont being Eliza Mercedes, eldest daughter of Michael P. Grace of New York. Lord Allendale and his brother Hubert, who are rich, are sons of the late Lord Allendale's first wife, a sister of the Marquis of Clanricarde. She was one of the most popular figures in London society and a remarkably beautiful woman.

After her death the late Lord Allendale married the widow of that ill fated general, Sir George Pomeroy Colloy, who was in command of the British troops on the occasion of their disastrous defeat by the Boers on Majuba hill, in the first Boer war, thirty years ago. The present Lord Allendale was formerly in the army, represented the Nexham division of Northumberland in parliament, was vice chamberlain to King Edward, and is married to a sister of the Marquis of Londonderry. Bretton Park, his place near Wakefield, has been in the family since the early part of the eighteenth century.

Lieut. Francis Woodbyne Parish of the Sixtieth Rifles, A. D. C. to Lord Gladstone, governor general of South Africa, who is engaged to be married to Miss Dorothy Drew, the favorite granddaughter of the late Mr. Gladstone (she frequently figuring when a child in the latter's portraits, seated on the knee of the grand old man), is a grandson of that Sir Woodbyne Parish who played so important a rôle at Buenos Aires in the infancy of the Argentine republic. So great was the gratitude of the republic to Sir Woodbyne Parish that when he finally returned to Europe he received not only the public thanks of the president, the legislature, and the government of Argentina, and a demonstration from the people, but the request by the government that he and his descendants in the male line bear the arms of the republic on the family escutcheon. It is the only instance of the kind I can recall of any diplomat receiving such a tribute from the government to which he was accredited.

The first years of the Argentine republic after its separation from Spain constitute a record of murderous revolutions and squalid squabbles, and the republic was boycotted by the foreign powers. Sir Woodbyne Parish, who had been sent out to Buenos Aires as consul general, eventually secured the recognition of the republic by England, the other great powers of Europe following in Britain's wake. Subsequently he negotiated an advantageous treaty of commerce between Great Britain and Argentina, which has constituted the basis of England's preëminence ever since in the trade and industry of the republic.

After Sir Woodbyne Parish had obtained the recognition of the republic Lord Ponsonby was sent out as minister plenipotentiary. But, much to the disgust of George IV., he remained only a short time. For George had dispatched him to Buenos Aires because he was insanely jealous of this extremely good looking but incompetent diplomat with whom Lady Conyngham had become infatuated, the marchioness being at the time the favorite of the king.

It was only after Lord Ponsonby's departure that Sir Woodbyne Parish was appointed minister at Buenos Aires, and subsequently distinguished himself in Europe, especially as envoy to the court of Naples, though, owing to the inveterate hostility of Lord Palmerston, he never received adequate official recognition of his services.

Among the many stories recalled by the death of the Dowager Duchess of Devonshire there is one I have seen nowhere mentioned, which few people know, and yet which sheds light on the character of the duchess. One afternoon a friend called upon her and announced to her—she then was Duchess of Manchester—that a man they both knew well had been caught cheating at cards on the previous evening. The duchess stopped her visitor short, exclaiming:

"Wait till I write down a name."

"Now," she exclaimed, "tell me who it was."

"George Russell," was the reply.

"I know it," remarked the duchess and showed her visitor Russell's name inscribed on the piece of paper.

Then she explained that during the last stay of King Edward and Queen Alexandra as Prince and Princess of Wales at Kimbolton castle she had seen George Russell playing unfairly. Instead of making a fuss or exposing him, she merely engineered matters so that on one pretext or another he was prevented from playing again while at Kimbolton, and he left without suspecting he had been discovered by his hostess.

He was a son-in-law of the sixth Duke of Roxburghe, and a great-grandson of the fourth Duke of Bedford and of the fifth Duke of Argyll; he had been private secretary of the Prince of Wales (Edward VII.) and secretary of the government department of public works.

The duchess' conduct in this matter presents a striking contrast to that of the Arthur Wilsons of Transby Croft, who, when they believed they had caught one of their guests playing unfairly, denounced him, involving the late king, who was a member of their house party, in the famous baccarat scandal.

IF Dr. Johnson were to express his inclination today, do you suppose a postchaise would satisfy his passion for brisk locomotion? Would he prefer a touring car?

IMPRESSED with the possibilities for muckraking in England, Lincoln Steffens remarks that "men tell with perfect honesty and innocence of cases of corruption in parliament which, if they can be proven, would put men in jail with us." WHO DRANK THE ALCOHOL?
[From the Ocean Springs News, relayed by Old Charlie Dryden.]

To clean carpets on floor, take four ounces alcohol, one 10 cent cake soap, two ounces borax; shave soap and dissolve in two quarts water boiling hot. Add borax when dissolved, add one gallon water, boil fifteen minutes, take from fire, and add as much water as necessary. Take good stiff brush and go over one width of the carpet at a time.

AS to why hotelkeepers charge farmers less than they charge traveling men, one of our readers discovered the reason in 1899: The gadder takes a bunch of toothpicks after each meal and pouches them; the farmer takes only one, and when he is finished with it he puts it back.

Evidently Not.

"THE FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE."

SOME MATTERS OF SANITATION.

Chicago, July 26.—[To the Friend of the People.]—I live on Sixty-third place near Spaulding. A neighbor keeps a horse and has allowed manure to be piled up against the barn in the alley until it is about eight or ten feet high. The foul odors entering one's windows at all hours of the day and night have almost made my wife ill. Cannot these people be compelled to have a box for this manure and not allow it to accumulate in such quantities? V. B.

The inspector's report on the premises 3253 West Sixty-third place, complained about in the inclosed letter, is as follows:

"About half a wagon load of manure thrown in the alley, one horse, no manure box." Notice was served to provide proper manure box with cover.

A complaint having been made of insanitary conditions in the basements of 4449-53 Oakenwald avenue, an inspector was detailed on the case and reported as follows:

"A twenty gallon metal covered receptacle for garbage kept in the boiler room. Three wooden barrels of papers removed at the time garbage is removed, which is about three times a week. Garbage not burned here. 4455-7 Oakenwald avenue—Garbage is being burned in furnace of heating plant. Garbage all burned at time inspection was made. No odor."

Chicago, July 26.—[To the Friend of the People.]—In our block (Sixty-second and Sixty-third, also Jefferson and Jackson Park avenues) garbage is burned, emitting an unbearable odor, nearly every night. Cannot something be done to stop burning and compel garbage to be removed daily with city wagons furnished for that purpose? GEORGE F. HURD, 6251 Jefferson avenue.

The inspector's report on premises 6256 Jackson Park avenue, complained of in the inclosed letter, is as follows:

"Complaint of odors from burning of garbage in the premises rear of 6249-51 Jefferson avenue. No odors at time of inspection." Notice was served to abate the nuisance of offensive odors from the burning of garbage. THOS. J. CLAFFY, Assistant chief sanitary inspector.

THE CHANGE IS MARVELOUS.

Chicago, July 28.—[To the Friend of the People.]—I addressed a communication from myself and other residents to the Friend of the People. We have been anxiously awaiting its appearance, but have concluded it will not appear. The reasons, however, are obvious. The good work has been done. You have referred the letter to the police and the change is marvelous. The ruffians have all been dispersed and a detail is now on watch evenings. The Illinois Central railroad has put a stop on its entrance gate which keeps crapshooters and drunks off the lake front, and the gate is still used as an exit.

For this great relief, dear TRIBUNE, many thanks. J. ROBSON WEDDELL.

The letter in question complained of acts of ruffianism and vandalism in Woodland Park. The Friend of the People forwarded it to Chief of Police McWeeny, who, with commendable promptness, put a stop to the misdoings.

BUILDING NOT UNSAFE.

Chicago, July 26.—[To the Friend of the People.]—If a building is condemned do they allow business to go on, or not? If not, why do they allow business in the building at — South Market street? ANXIOUS.

This building has been inspected at different times within the last two years and has not been condemned. The mistake arises from the firemen's report of general conditions. This is an old building and cannot be brought up to the same standard as a new building, but same is not unsafe and lives are not endangered on account of its condition. HENRY ERICSSON, Commissioner of buildings.

NO LOGAN SQUARE EXTENSION.

Chicago, July 28.—[To the Friend of the People.]—Can you say whether or not the Logan Square branch of the Metropolitan elevated is going to be extended, when, and where to? "The Friend of the People" is great and is very interesting as well as a great help. CHARLES JENSEN, 4119 North Fifty-first avenue.

No plans have ever been made for the extension of the Logan Square branch, and it is my personal opinion that there is little prospect of such an extension being made. B. I. BUDD, President Metropolitan West Side Elevated railway company.

SEWERS AND DRAINS.

Chicago, July 28.—[To the Friend of the People.]—I own property on Cottage Grove avenue near Eighty-fourth street. I have been assessed for a sewer in that street. Now they come back with another assessment for drains in Cottage Grove, payable in the first payment. I have made inquiries of several real estate men what constitutes a drain, but no one has been able to enlighten me. Thinking I might be able to get some light from yourself, I take the liberty of addressing you. R. M. N.

The first assessment mentioned was for sewer in the street and the assessment for drains is to connect the sewer in the street with the lot line. (Now payable to the county collector.) Contract for the laying of these drains was awarded to Michael Pontorelli Aug. 6, 1910, and the work completed Dec. 5, 1910. EDWARD J. GLACKIN, Secretary board of local improvements.

SIXTY-NINTH STREET PAVING HELD UP.

Chicago, July 28.—[To the Friend of the People.]—Is Sixty-ninth street going to be paved this year? How about the sewer? We hear it is too low to work. CLIFFORD BROS.

In relation to the paving with brick of West Sixty-ninth street, from Halsted to Ashland, docket 1125 Superior court: The assessment roll was filed May 5, but objections having been filed in court to the proceedings by some of the property owners it will be necessary to have the case placed on a trial calendar for disposition of objections before the assessment can be confirmed. It is hardly likely that the improvement can be made before next year.

As to the sewer, Sixty-ninth street is too far from the river and the ground is too low to make it possible for a sewer in that street to have sufficient depth without the installation of pumping machinery. EDWARD J. GLACKIN, Secretary.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

ENGLISH ACTIVITY IN CUBA.

Chicago, July 28.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—When the Hamburg-American line negotiated for a coaling station in the West Indies, principally for its Atlas service liners, running out from the West Twenty-fourth street piers in New York, the leading newspapers pointed out that this coaling station meant to be no less than a forerunner for a naval base of the German fleet within striking distance of the Panama canal.

When recently it was rumored that Japanese shipping interests had acquired from the Diaz régime various concessions on the west coast of Mexico, the principal one to establish a base for its mercantile marine, a well laid and deep plan of the Japanese to gain a foothold on the American continent was held up to our eyes. Some ascribed the cause of the shifting of a large United States force to the Mexican border rather to this danger than to the turbulent conditions in Mexico.

The public is waiting now—at least that part of the public that takes an interest in international affairs—for some editorial comment on the British activity recently displayed at Matanzas, Cuba.

As most of our leading newspapers in their editorials commenting on the international situation take their cue from the meaning conveyed by the cleverly worded foreign news dispatches supplied by the London news bureau, and naturally keep on "blowing" through English horn, a sort of hiatus exists relative to the Matanzas enterprise, since the London news bureau dispatches failed to mention this English expansion.

Matanzas commands the Straits of Florida and thus the northern entrance to the Gulf of Mexico. Its roadstead, sufficiently deepened, will give shelter to a fleet of the largest battleships. The straight roadbed would permit a fleet lying there with "steam up" to emerge in battle formation and to go into action in the shortest possible space of time.

The victory in modern naval battles will go to the fleet—a modern fleet, well matched as to equipment—that will throw the greatest amount of steel in the shortest possible time, with, of course, the greatest accuracy.

A fleet of submarines, with its base at Matanzas, can also block effectually the egress from or access to the Mexican gulf through the Straits of Florida.

English interests have bought up the controlling stock of the railroad entering Matanzas from the east, are planning the construction of docks, warehouses, and coal pockets, and intend to make Matanzas a harbor of the first class.

In addition to this, the English government has decided to modernize the fortifications of Kingston, Jamaica, and to double the garrison stationed there, most likely principally by coast artillery.

"TRIBUNE" PRICE IN THE COUNTRY.

Jackson, Mich., July 27.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—I am sure the thousands of traveling men who read THE TRIBUNE are greatly pleased with your editorial in their interests which appeared this morning. A great good can be done by an organ like THE TRIBUNE, which will lift some of the undue expenses from the traveling man's shoulders.

I do not know whether or not the management of THE TRIBUNE is aware of the fact, but we Chicagoans who like to have our own city papers with our coffee in the morning are compelled by hotel newsstands and others to pay 5 cents per copy. In other words, there are a good many thousand traveling men paying $18 a year for THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, while it costs others less than one-fifth.

Couldn't THE TRIBUNE do some yeoman work for the traveling man? Start after the newsstands, the tipping evil, the excess baggage charges and the excessive hotel charges with the same spirit you are fighting other battles. A. BEMIS.

PAWNBROKERS' RATES.

TIME TO CONSIDER THE FARMER.

R. F. D. No. 6, North Yakima, Wash., July 20.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—For years the farmers of this country were taxed through the tariff to help the "infant industries." When that plea became threadbare they were taxed through the same tariff to protect "the great American laborer" from "pauper Europe." Now the beneficiaries of both the above instances, the manufacturers, are opposing the parcels post to protect the small storekeeper. Isn't it about time to consider the rights of the ultimate consumer—the farmer? Isn't his dollar as good to him as to any one else? For some years it has been worth to him only about 40 cents in real value, the remainder being absorbed in benefits and bonuses. The present congress will lessen this percentage through tariff legislation, and should also lessen it again by passing a full and comprehensive parcels post bill. J. E. BOYLE.

TRIALS OF THE TRAVELER.

Chicago, July 28.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—I read your editorial "Fair Deal for Commercial Travelers" in yesterday's issue. As one of the travelers I wish to thank THE TRIBUNE for its kindly feeling to us. I travel the south to the gulf, with three trunks, and each move I make my excess baggage costs the same as my ticket. Often I make what we call "sleeper jumps," as I stop only in the large cities. Adding then the price of meals on the diner makes us pretty good customers of the roads, to say nothing of the freight shipped over their lines as a result of our sales.

When leaving Chicago my trunks are packed, and samples are such they cannot be changed until I return, neither added to nor taken from, yet at some places they weigh as high as forty pounds more than in Chicago, and we have no voice in the matter except pay whatever the agent asks. This as well as excess rates should be adjusted. We are also at the mercy of their station lunchrooms, which we frequently have to patronize, always paying double the amount railroad men and town people pay.

In my territory I find most hotels very considerate of the traveling men, and in cases of conventions or special occasions they as a rule always try and take care of us, but the greatest evil here, to my mind, is "tipping," and every hotel management should abolish it, as a great many men travel on a commission basis and all these extra expenses come out of their own pockets.

Men making small towns are more subject to these petty annoyances of overcharges than we who make large cities, as we have more hotels and cafés to select from. A TRAVELER.

PRICE OF GROCERIES.

Hayward, Wis., July 26.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—THE TRIBUNE of today published a dispatch from Des Moines, Ia., "Hit Grocers Combine," and cited that the municipality had become the patron of hucksters and produce venders and quoted that new potatoes were sold for 45 cents a peck or $1.75 a bushel, where formerly the price had been $3 to $4 per bushel. Cucumbers were sold three for 10 cents, against the price of 10 cents each, which had been prevailing.

The dispatch is misleading. In my recent visit to Iowa in an official capacity among the grocers I did not find that there was any combination to control prices. The slump in price of produce is a matter of supply and demand, as your daily market reports will prove, and should not be used against the much abused grocer who furnishes the convenience of supply to the consumer.

A week ago we paid $2.25 per bushel for potatoes and 23 cents per 100 pounds freight and sold at 60 cents a peck. Yesterday I paid $1 per bushel. Cucumbers a week ago were 85 cents a dozen and the freight. We sold at 8 cents each. Today the truck farmers were selling them three for 5 cents. As to apples, we do not raise them, but we pay $1 per bushel and the freight, and are selling for 35 cents per peck. J. H. HELLWEG, —President Wisconsin Retail Grocers' association.

BY I. E. SANBORN.

Magnificent defensive work on both sides gave the appearance of a pitchers' battle to yesterday's scrap between Cubs and Phillies, which ended in another triumph for the leaderless Daisies 2 to 1, and cut more props out from under the league leaders.

The pitching itself was nothing to brag about. In fact, it was only mediocre, with the accent on the last syllable, but the support given the slabmen was something to talk about in spite of the fact a lone error lost the game. Lewis Richie and Earl Moore hooked up at the outset. Lurid Lew was unsteady in spots and kept himself in the hole to the batsmen. He issued four passes and permitted eleven hits, but so tight was he in the pinches and so good his backing that the Phillies had a helva time getting two runs out of all the men they had on bases.

Moore was a lot more generous than his opponent. His earlship gave six bases on balls, but made up for that by his miserly attitude regarding swats. Only four were made off him in seven innings, after which he was withdrawn to let a sub striker bat for him, and Alexander the Great came on in time to sit in the floral horseshoe.

Zim's Fumble Costly.

While any team which makes eleven hits to the other fellow's four is assuredly entitled to a win, the Phillies owe yesterday's victory to Heine Zimmerman. Far be it from us to hang crepe on the glorious medals the Bronx hero has been earning in the last few games. There is no desire to dim the luster with which those deeds shine out from the pages of recent history. But the sad fact must be chronicled that Heine Zim's fumble in the first inning was what turned the first pass Richie issued into a tally. And, grievous as it is, this fact must be followed by the other that a mental boot in the fourth inning caused the same Heine Zim to kill off the most promising opportunity the Cubs had to get Moore's number and some runs.

Caruso Beck of Havana, Ill., shared with Zimmerman the responsibility for breaking up that fourth inning attack. His catch of Saier's line drive was a whole chorus of screams, and was so complete an upset that it would have tangled up the brain cells of the quickest thinking runner. Paskert and Doolan also shone at times defensively, while Pat Moran flagged everything that tried to steal, in addition to whanging out three of the eleven hits off Lew Richie.

Tinker Only Swatting Cub.

Tinker made half the Cubs' hits and drove in the only Cub tally, which grew out of Jim Doyle's two bagger in the sixth. The same pair of infielders performed in sterling fashion on the field. Vic Saier, however, was the day's star defensively. His greatest feat was that by which Lobert was trapped off first base in the ninth after making a swell hit that scored the winning run. Doyle cut into the throw home and, seeing Lobert off his balance at first base, shot the ball to Saier. It came to the youngster on a nasty bound, and bounded right out from among Lobert's feet at that. In some mysterious way Saier differentiated the ball from the other brand of leather, scooped it cleanly and with the same motion tagged the astonished but finely trained athlete right in the middle of his forehead. Sheckard helped his pitcher in one or two spots by brilliant running catches which kept hits from going into the crowd.

Richie began by passing Knabe. Paskert struck out and Lobert bounded one to Zimmerman, who booted it. Luderus flied high to Schulte, and the side ought to have been out, but it wasn't. Walsh followed with a frightful smash to left. It cleared the heads of the squatter squadron, and the visitors claimed it cleared the barrier gate. But Umpire Rigler ruled that it dropped inside, and that made a two bagger out of it instead of a home run, and gave the visitors one run on it instead of three. Lobert marched back to third, and Knabe reluctantly returned to second. Both were stranded on Beck's pop fly.

Moore was wild and passed Sheckard, but he was forced at second by Schulte, and another pass handed to Hofman made no difference, as Zimmy struck out and Doyle lofted.

Paskert rPevents Runs.

Richie pitched swell baseball in the next three innings, during which one pass and one single were tabbed against him. Moore had two narrow escapes in the same period. In the second round Paskert's brilliant running catch of Tinker's wallop to right center kept the Cubs from counting, and in the fourth it was Beck who came to the earl's rescue. Zimmerman opened the half with a single. Doyle fouled out. Tinker singled, sending Zimmerman to third, and Saier followed with a ringing liner to right. Beck happened to be within reaching distance of the smash and by extending his telescopic personality to the limit stabbed the ball and held it. Zimmy had started for home and had to go back to third. He did and then tried to score on the catch. Beck's throw was poor, but beat Heine easily and he was doubled up. Heine can be forgiven for not standing on third when the catch was made, because it was so unexpected, but there was no chance for him to score after he went back to third and if he had remained there something might have come off to score him after all.

In the fifth Moran led with the first of his three hits and stood around first base nearly half an hour while Moore and Knabe were flying out. Sheckard making a beautiful catch of Otto's long drive. Then Paskert and Lobert walked, filling the bases and bringing up Luderus. The best Fred could do was a fly to Schulte. In the sixth, with two out, Doolan and Moran singled and Moore struck out. That round saw the Cubs make their only tally. Doyle opened up with a double into the left field throng, went to third on a wild pitch and scored when Tinker laced a single through the close drawn infield. Joe was forced by Saier, who was nailed trying to steal.

The eighth saw a duplication of the sixth. Two were out when Doolan and Moran singled again. Moore came to bat, but, remembering what happened before, Doolan sent for Titus to swat in the runs. Jawn flied to Sheckard. In the home eighth Hofman walked before Alexander got warmed up, but a fast double play started by Lobert disposed of the Cub chances.

Knabe opened the ninth with a Texas leaguer, which fell six inches inside the left foul line and gave him two bases. Paskert missed one bunt, then switched and flied out, but it did not prove costly, for Lobert drove a single to left, on which Knabe counted the winning run. Doyle cut into Sheckard's peg to the plate and caught Lobert napping at first with grand help from Saier. Luderus singled, but was forced at second.

CUB SYDELIGHTS.

Philadelphia again today.

The Phillies now have three victories over the Cubs this year.

From Chicago's viewpoint, Dooin's men don't seem to miss Dooin so that you would notice it.

Mique Doolan is playing like a new man since his assumption of the red headed man's burden. In the last two games he has tagged several Cub runners at second base when he had to dive for them after catching the ball.

Either Alexander or Burns will pitch the final game of the series today. Alexander worked only two innings yesterday and can come back but Will Burns is eager for another chance at the Cubs and may get it. Reulbach is the logical slabman for the Cubs.

Sheckard went through the day without acquiring a legal time at bat. That is not absolutely unique, as it happened before, but it is unusual. The first three times Sheckard came up Moore passed him. The fourth time he sacrificed Richie to second.

Somebody steps on Zimmerman's bunion almost every day and sometimes twice a day. Will Burns has offered to burn it off with the gasoline blower which he uses on the ranch to shave cacti and prickly pear for the cattle to eat during dry winters.

With Zimmerman on first and nobody out in the fourth Doyle bunted a neat one along the first base line and overtook the ball on its way to the bag. The visitors let it roll and Umpire Finneran, who was watching it, said it rolled foul. That decision had great influence on the game.

Tinker made a brilliant play on Moran's bounder in the fifth. He took the ball far back on the grass and steadying himself cut loose on a line to first. Saier scooped the ball neatly, but Finneran ruled that Pat beat it to the bag. Saier and Tinker both protested. Moran did not get home.

The game was awfully slow on account of the difficulty the pitchers had in getting the ball over the pan. Many balls were pitched to every batsman, and much deliberation was indulged in between pitches. In consequence it required an hour and twenty minutes to play five innings, and over two and a quarter hours to complete a 2 to 1 game.

NEW FIRST BASEMAN FOR CUBS.

President Murphy Announces Purchase of Agler of the Newark Eastern League Club.

President Murphy of the Cubs announced yesterday the purchase of First Baseman Agler of the Newark team of the Eastern league. He is to be delivered for trial at the close of the Eastern league's season in September, and the consideration to be surrendered by the local club is an unnamed bunch of cash and two players yet to be decided upon. Agler is a left hander and while not yet another Hal Chase, he has all the physical qualifications for first basing that Chase has, and Manager Chance advised the Cub boss not to overlook that chance. Agler is a fast fielder and base runner, and hits fairly well. The deal was arranged between Messrs. Murphy and H. C. Smith, who owns the Newark club, in company with Joe McGinnity. Thus is disclosed one of the reasons for George Huff's frequent visits to the "Joisy side" while he was in the east with the Cubs this month.

Chicago at New York. Detroit at Philadelphia.

BY SAM WELLER.

New York, July 30.—[Special.]—Three straight victories for the ambitious White Sox over the Yankees have put the Chicago athletes in high spirits once more, besides moving them back into third place in the American league race, and for that reason the boys enjoyed their day's rest and recreation today with added enthusiasm.

The only thing to mar the pleasure of beating the locals three times was the row between Capt. Lord and Umpire Mullin which occurred in the ninth inning of the second game yesterday and caused the ousting of the Sox captain. A suspension is expected to follow the incident, and Capt. Lord is in a repentant mood today and says he knows he made a mistake, but in the excitement of the moment lost control of himself. No word has been received yet from President Johnson, but none is expected before tomorrow.

It Was Just Like This.

Lord explained his attitude today in this way: "I would never have acted that way but I was sure I was safe in that instance and when he called me out after having missed two other plays before in the same game, it was too much and I jumped up determined to show him just what I thought about it. I didn't have any intention of hitting him, and I didn't. I just grabbed him with both hands and might have shaken him a little, but it was only to make my point impressive. Of course, I shouldn't have touched him but at the time the score was tied and we were having an awful battle to win the game and that decision might have cost us the victory."

As Lord has never been a troublesome player for the umpires his penalty for his offense of yesterday is likely to be as light as is possible, but no one expects him to get off for nothing. It may keep him out of the remaining games in New York and possibly a part of the Washington series, but he should be in good standing again in time to captain the team in the series with the Athletics, which will wind up the invasion of the east.

If the White Sox had played as aggressive baseball in Boston as they did here, they might have owned five victories and one defeat on the trip so far instead of an even break of three and three. Big Walsh was not present in the Boston games or the result might have been much different. As soon as Walsh rejoined the team it began winning. He has taken part in two of the three games played here and while he was on the slab the opposing team was always licked.

Another Walsh Would Help.

The other game, the only one here that Walsh didn't get into, was the hardest fight of all and five pitchers worked in it in desperation to land the victory by a score of 8 to 7, in ten innings. If the Sox possessed a couple more Ed Walshes they might win the pennant without a struggle.

The debut of Joe Hovlik yesterday as a Sox pitcher was an unfortunate start for a fellow who is out to make good. If he had been on the home grounds, where the crowd was pulling for him instead of jeering him, he might have gotten away all right. He hadn't pitched three balls before some wag in the grand stand had picked his peculiarity and began playing upon it, and before he had pitched six balls the whole crowd was following the suggestion of the wag.

Hovlik is a spitball pitcher and so big and sturdy that he looks good natured. In moistening the ball he raises his hands to his mouth and tilts his head back as if he were draining the last dregs out of a stein. The wag saw it at once and when Joe tilted his head back the second time, the wag let out a long gasp of satisfaction just as one might do after finishing said stein. The crowd caught the suggestion at once and a hundred wags got in on the third one, and a thousand on the fourth, and they kept it up, enjoying the fun immensely. Although this didn't seem to bother Hovlik, it was undoubtedly a novelty to him, for he hasn't been accustomed to such things in Oxford Junction, Ia.

Umpire Perrine Unkind.

Then "Bull" Perrine, the ump behind the plate, wouldn't give the big fellow a strike unless he cut the plate waist high, and the first thing he knew the bases were filled with only one out and Capt. Lord decided it was no place for an Oxford Junction man under those conditions, so the big fellow was retired. He's broader of shoulder than Walsh and about equal in height. He is calm and deliberate, has a lot of speed and a spitball as well as a good curve. Joe will be given another chance at Washington, and should be a regular big leaguer by the time the Sox get home.

Most of the boys visited the Long Island beaches today, for it was hot and the water was fine. "Shano" Collins chaperoned a party of freshmen to Coney Island, where all the sights were taken in. Ping Bodie, Roy Corhan, Ralph Kreitz, and Joe Corhan were under "Shano's" care, as it was their first visit to the resort.

Ira Thomas a Visitor.

Manager Duffy and Jimmy Callahan spent the day at the home of Frank Fogarty, the Irish minstrel, who lives in Brooklyn, and possesses a touring car. Ira Thomas, the catcher for the Athletics, spent the day in New York, and called on the boys at the hotel in the morning. He told how they had the Tigers on the run, and believed they have them licked now.

Sullivan accused Ira of coming over to steal the Sox signals, but it would hardly be necessary for him to take a whole day off to do that. Ira also said that Lena Blackburn sat on the bench with the Athletics in yesterday's game with Detroit, and was looking fine and declaring he would be in shape to play ball by the time the Sox reached Philadelphia.

Madison, 4; Aurora, 0.

Madison, Wis., July 30.—Madison shut out Aurora, 4 to 0. Palmer was in danger at no time and kept the hits well scattered, while Madden lost his second game of the series. Manager Teabeau protested the game, claiming Auby did not have a uniform. Score:

ELGIN COURSE PROVES SPEED

Dave Buick Drives Car Over Eight Mile Course in 8:42.

HOPE FOR ROAD RACE RECORD

Pilot Reaches Pace of 84 Miles Per Hour on Stretch Near Stand.

BY JOHN G. DE LONG.

That the claim of a record breaking circuit for the Elgin national stock chassis races of Aug. 25 and 26 is justified was conclusively proved yesterday when Dave Buck sent a racing car over the eight mile course in 8:42, a pace that surprised even Chairman Charles E. Gregory and his associates on the contest board of the Chicago Motor club, which conducted the trial.

After the test the committeemen were jubilant and did not hesitate to predict the lowering of the American road race record when the speed meet takes place. The veteran Buck, winner of the Kane county trophy in 1910, was behind the steering wheel of Arthur Greiner's old National, in which Greiner took third place in last year's feature event. In spite of the fact that three sides of the course at present are slippery from the recently distributed oil, Buck made the circuit of eight miles in 8:42 rather easily.

When he rounded the Udina turn and swung into the homestretch he was able to let the big blue car out for the first time, and the result was he covered the three miles from the corner to the tape at the rate of a little under eighty-four miles an hour.

The test was witnessed by members of the Chicago Motor club and the Elgin Road Race association. After a conference of the officials it was the consensus of opinion that only a little work remains to be done to put the course in lightning fast condition. The south leg or that portion of the course on which the grandstand is located, is as hard and smooth as a floor, and all that remains to be done is to cover the surface with oil, an operation that will be carried out during the week.

The two short legs on the extreme west and east of the course and the three mile section on the north side already have been oiled, and as soon as the lubricant is taken up by the soil it is expected to prove much faster than it was last year. Greater speed also is assured by the improvements on the turns, which have been widened by several feet. On the section running from the grandstand to Hornbeek's corner the course extends from fence to fence, and it will be possible for as many as six cars to race abreast over it.

Officials of the Motor club and the Elgin association decided upon the location of the various stands near the finish line. The grand stand is to occupy the same position as last year, but the structure will be improved by elevating it high enough to afford a clear view of the cars as they swing along the east end of the back stretch. The judges' stand will be placed directly opposite the center of the grand stand, with the press stand just to the west. The official headquarters of the race meet will be placed back of the judges' stand in the field, as will the hospital tent.

Graves of Los Angeles, Cal., won the feature event of last night's motorcycling races at the Riverview stadium when by a desperate spurt on the last hundred yards of the five mile race he passed Balke. Graves took the race, his second victory for the evening. Chappelle, the New York rider, had little difficulty in defeating Walters of Chicago in both heats of a special event. Summaries:

'POP' COULON DIES IN SUDDEN CRISIS

Internal Hemorrhages Follow Operation Performed Two Weeks Ago.

MAKES SON A CHAMPION.

Father Guides Johnny Carefully Up Ladder to Bantam Pugilistic Title.

BY KNOCKOUT.

Emil E. Coulon, known by all as "Pop," father and manager of Johnny Coulon, Chicago's bantamweight champion pugilist, died yesterday afternoon at 3:15 o'clock at St. Mary's of Nazzareth hospital. Death was unexpected. Just two weeks ago today Mr. Coulon was operated on for hernia and rallied so quickly that the family and attending physicians did not consider his condition serious.

The first intimation of a crisis came yesterday about noon, when the patient had a sinking spell caused by internal hemorrhages, from which he never recovered. The family were quickly notified and all but Johnny, the pugilist, and his brother Benny, were at the bedside when Mr. Coulon expired. Saturday night the stricken man was in cheerful mood and talking of when he might leave the hospital. At various times during his illness he had been attacked by spells of weakness, but each time rallied and all of those close to him looked for him to win his battle for life.

Calls for Absent Son.

In his last hours the father called for his son Johnny, whom he had piloted through many fights to victory. "Pop" was fighting his fight, the fight for life, and we wanted the boy of whom he was so proud with him. But Johnny and his brother Benny were in Peru, Ill., where the Coulon Athletics were playing a game of baseball.

"Pop" Coulon, with his fighting son, had traveled to all parts of the country for ring battles, and they were just "pals." "Pop" had the father's interest in the son, and he combined this with the acumen of a good manager. Since the boy became the wonderful little fighter that he is, always a winner, "Pop" was more than proud of him. He never has seen Johnny beaten, and he never will, although he didn't think any one could even beat Johnny.

Two weeks ago yesterday Coulon Jr. attended the game in which his son's team played against the Leland Giants at Normal Park. He went from the ball park to the hospital and the operation was performed on the following day. Complications developed, but it was thought his constitution would carry him through to health again.

Regarded as Credit to Game.

"Pop" Coulon was regarded as a credit to the game of pugilism, and he had thousands of friends in it and out of it. He was one father managing a fighting son, a thing seldom seen, and he did it in a way that made friends for both. He entered the game in 1905, when Johnny fought his first battle, knocking out a youngster named "Young" Bennie in six rounds. Johnny at that time was being taught the tricks of the trade by George Siler, who since has passed, and to Siler he gives credit for his knowledge of boxing.

Then fights came fast for Johnny, and "Pop" went along carefully so as not to overmatch his boy. And he didn't. He carried him along until the boy gained all the fame possible and became a champion.

TENNIS STARS WILL PLAY FOR WEST CHAMPIONSHIP TODAY.

Clash of Bundy and McLoughlin at Onwentsia Promises Great Match—Both "Tournament Wise."

At Onwentsia today the western title in the men's singles will be played, Maurice McLoughlin, the Pacific coast champion, meeting T. C. Bundy, the present title holder, for the honor. The match is scheduled to start at 2 o'clock.

The match is the culmination of one of the classiest net tournaments ever held in the middle west. Bundy won the title last year by defeating Albrecht Ludke, the Aztec star, in a walkaway match. This year the title holder will meet a challenger worthy of his metal and a man who has demonstrated by the ease with which he mounted to the finals in the present tournament that he may possibly wrest the western championship. McLoughlin is a grand tennis player. He is a pastmaster of the driving style of play, a whirlwind at the net, a perfect smasher of short lobs, and covers more ground than seems possible for so short a man.

Bundy, however, has proved that he is McLoughlin's equal, and speed is no more of an enigma to him than lobbing. Bundy demonstrated an appetite for speed last year when he defeated... cannot depend upon drives to net them victory.

cannot depend upon drivs to net them victory.

EVANSTON FIRST IN LAKE CRUISE

Columbia Yacht Club Craft Scores Victory at Macatawa Bay Events.

CHLORIS WINS IN CLASS.

Outsails 25 to 35 Foot Yawls and Sloops, While the Edith Also Scores Cleanup.

Macatawa Park, Mich., July 30.—[Special.]—With a favorable wind and almost ideal weather conditions, Evanston of the Columbia Yacht club won the Macatawa Bay Yacht club's fifth annual cruising race.

Evanston's victory was in a large part due to the excellent sailing which brought it dead on to the harbor in the steamboat course, while the other boats were beating about trying to locate the lights. Good work was also done by the smaller boats, A. J. Smith's Chloris of Jackson Park winning in the class for 25 to 35 foot sloops and yawls and Bob Williamson's Edith, also of Jackson Park, taking the prize for sloops and yawls 25 feet and under.

The yachts all got away with excellent starts. The entire first class crossing the line in less than a minute. Evanston won on actual as well as corrected time, upsetting the record held by the Chloris by making the ninety mile run in 12 hours and 22 minutes. Larikin was second and Nanawa third. Nanawa was the second boat in and was beaten on the corrected time by only four seconds, the breaking of a halyard while raising a spinnaker preventing it from taking second.

In the second class, with the exception of the winner, Chloris, New Illinois was the only boat to finish. Widsith following the power boat Allis, which was bound for Grand Haven, got so far north that it put into port with the Allis without attempting to beat back. Josephine in the thirty-five foot class had a defective compass and did not make port until late Sunday night. Summaries:

POSTAL BANK HERE OPENS TOMORROW

Chicagoans Will Have Chance Then to Deposit Cash with Uncle Sam.

RUSH EXPECTED AT START

Cashier Bean in Federal Building Will Receive All Money Offered.

Tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock Chicagoans can enter the federal building from Dearborn street, walk up to Cashier Bean's desk, and deposit what bills or change they desire, up to $100, the limit for one month's deposits. There is just one condition—viz.: depositor must be 10 years old or more.

Mr. Bean will give certificates of deposit in return, for cash. Depositors can have the money back at any time they wish, provided they surrender the certificates. But if they leave it with the postoffice for one year they will be entitled to 2 cents interest on every dollar of it. In the meantime they will have the United States of America as security for it.

Of course, many will have to wait in line the first morning. If one out of every ten persons who has inquired about the postal bank is present tomorrow morning there will be a run on the government's bank—a run to deposit, that is.

Will Get Data on Depositors.

There are, too, some preliminaries that all will have to go through with in making their first deposits with Uncle Sam. Mr. Bean or his assistants will ask patrons to write their names, sex, and color, age, and place of birth, and, in the case of women, whether married or single.

The envelope which carries the depositor's signature and answers to these questions will be retained by the postoffice and in it will be put duplicates of all the certificates of deposit given out on cash account.

After one once has an envelope at the bank he can deposit by mail or by deputy or by any method he chooses.

"The system is simple, almost without bookkeeping," Postmaster Campbell declared yesterday. "After the first deposit is made one can bank with the least possible trouble. There are no deposit books."

If one has less than $1 to spare the postoffice will sell him a card for 10 cents and as many stamps at the same price as he has money to buy. When the card has nine 10 cent stamps it will be accepted as a dollar deposit.

May Have Branch Offices.

These cards will be on sale tomorrow morning only at the federal building, but in a few days it is possible that they may be had at any of the branch offices. Postmaster Campbell has written Washington for instructions in this matter. The system is at present worked out for an office without branches, and some new regulations will have to be made to fit the case of a city like Chicago.

A married woman can deposit any amount, from $1 to $100, without her husband's consent. He cannot draw on her account, either, or interfere with it in any way. Men don't have to tell whether they are married or not. No woman has to tell how many times she has been married nor even to whom she is at present married. Women bank under their own names, not those of their husbands.

Furniture for the bank has been ordered, but will not be ready for use until some weeks have passed. At first the bank will get along with the fittings of the cashier's office and without any extra clerks.

MORE CITIES GET P.-O. BANKS.

Washington, D. C., July 30.—[Special.]—Encouraged by the success of the postal savings system in the hundreds of cities where it already is in operation, Postmaster General Hitchcock signed an order today extending the system to ten cities of the first class.

By the terms of the order, Philadelphia, Brooklyn, Cleveland, Minneapolis, Milwaukee, St. Paul, Louisville, Jersey City, Wilmington, Del., and Long Island City will have postal savings banks in operation on Sept. 1. All of these cities rank high as industrial and commercial centers and all have a foreign born population.

Postal experts and bankers have estimated that $100,000,000 a year is sent out of the United States by foreign born residents for deposit in savings institutions in their native countries.

Already, Mr. Hitchcock says, it has been demonstrated that the postal savings banks in this country will be made the depositories of a considerable amount of this money.

The system now numbers among its patrons natives of every European country, and, in addition, many Chinese, Japanese, and Hindus, with a sprinkling of full blood American Indians.

LABOR PRESS PLANS FIGHT.

Will Oppose Increase in Second Class Mail Rates—Printers Criticise Hitchcock.

Opposition to any increase in the postage rates for second class mail and criticism of Postmaster General Hitchcock's ruling that monthly publications are to be sent by fast freight were voiced at the meeting of the Chicago Typographical union yesterday afternoon, in a series of resolutions.

This action was taken to indicate the sympathy of the printers with the labor press, whose publications will be affected by the new regulations.

Editors of labor papers from all parts of the country are to assemble at the Kaiserhof hotel today, and at this convention a national association of labor paper editors will be formed.

BUILDING TRADE EMPLOYERS PREPARE TO FIGHT FOR PEACE.

Contractors and Architects Form New Association and Will Use Lockout System if Necessary.

Contractors and architects, who have held a series of meetings recently for the purpose of organizing a new association in the building industry of Chicago, will meet today and elect officers. The new organization will be known as the Building Construction Employers' association.

Stagnation in the building industry this year, caused by jurisdictional disputes between labor unions, necessitates a new and stronger organization than any now in existence in Chicago to cope with the situation, contractors say. Therefore the contractors purpose to cement themselves in an organization that will be strong enough to use the lockout system as a means of protection.

It is declared there will be no lockouts until the first of the year, for the reason that contractors now have working agreements with all of the building trades.

NINTH FIRE IN JOLIET HERALD.

Damage of $10,000 from Blaze Believed to Be of Incendiary Origin, as Were Previous Flames.

Joliet, Ill., July 30.—Fire in the Daily Herald building, the ninth in seven years, today caused damage of $10,000. The origin is believed to be incendiary, as in previous fires. The Brewster Printing company's loss was $6,000, the Herald, $1,000, and on the building, $3,000.

Dubuque Has $150,000 Fire.

Dubuque, Ia., July 30.—[Special.]—Fire today destroyed the offices and a shed of the Spahn Rose Lumber company. The Wienecke-Hoer Pickling works and the Morrison-Kreitschmer Manufacturing company building were damaged. The loss is $150,000. Rags saturated with kerosene were found where the blaze started.

INSURANCE SUIT STIRS AGENCIES

Connecticut Company Retires Goodspeed Agency; Points Unfair Treatment.

EXPIRATIONS IN QUESTION

Charges Agent Neglects Renewals; Latter Advances Ownership of Policies Plea.

There is considerable interest taken by local fire insurance agents in the issue that has arisen at Joliet, Ill., between the Connecticut Fire Insurance company and its local representative in that city, the Goodspeed agency. The question that presents itself is whether the local agent owns the expirations of fire insurance policies or whether the company has any rights in the ownership.

This question is a disputed one between companies and agents. The agents claim that as the business is solicited and cared for by them, they can place it with any insurance company they desire that is represented in their office and the company has little to say in regard to it. The Goodspeed agency has represented the Connecticut for some time.

Claims Agent Neglects Business.

During the last few months the Connecticut claims that its agent has renewed few of its expirations in Will county. As this is the largest business in that county it became apprehensive and declared that its agent intended to let the company go in order to represent institutions that belonged to the Western Union.

The Connecticut retired from the office, appointed a new agent and started out to offer a 50 per cent rate reduction to get back the business that was formerly on its books, claiming that it had been treated unfairly and that its risks had been transferred to other companies in the Goodspeed agency. The Goodspeed agency secured a temporary injunction restraining the Connecticut or its representatives from interfering with the business of the former agents. The hearing on the injunction is to come up at the September term of court.

Suit Involves Illinois Agents.

The Illinois Local Agents' association, through its officers, have taken up the subject with the management of the Connecticut on the ground that the action that has been taken is likely to involve the other agents in the city. The Connecticut has taken the position that it will not interfere with any business that is not upon its books and will not grant a reduction for new insurance or additional insurance, but this reprisal is confined solely to expirations that have come due and been written in other companies.

The local agents' association feels that any attempt to punish an agent by this means cannot result in any other outcome than general demoralization, inasmuch as other companies are likely to step in and engage in the warfare.

Resent Action of Company.

Local agents have claimed all along that on even terms they can control the business they place on the books and they have always resented the action of a company that attempts to punish an agent by cutting rates. At the same time the companies feel that they are justified in using this drastic measure as a last result where they have been unfairly dealt with.

APPLICATION WILL BE MADE TO LIST THESE BONDS ON THE NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

From a letter of C. S. Mellen, Esq., President of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company, copies of which will be furnished on request, we summarize the following:

The payment of principal and interest of the bonds is unconditionally guaranteed by endorsement upon each bond by the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company, which holds practically the entire capital stock of the New York, Westchester & Boston Railway Company.

The net income of the guarantor for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1910, above operating expenses, taxes, rentals and all interest charges, was $10,796,875.35.

In addition to the guaranty of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company, the bonds are secured by a direct First Mortgage on the entire property of the New York, Westchester & Boston Railway, which, on May 31, 1911, represented an investment by the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company of $25,647,004.38. The present issue of $17,200,000 bonds thus represents less than 67 per cent of the investment in the property.

These bonds, which are exempt from taxation in New York State, have been approved by the public service commission of New York, Second District.

(Issued under Indenture to Morton Trust Co., dated June 15th, 1901, of which the Guaranty Trust Company of N. Y. is the Successor Trustee.)

The Supreme Court of the United States, in its decision in the suit brought by the United States against The American Tobacco Company and others, has directed that proceedings be had in the Circuit Court of the United States for the purpose of ascertaining and determining upon some plan or method of dissolving the combination, and of recreating, out of the elements now composing it, a new condition which shall be honestly in harmony with and not repugnant to the law. These proceedings must necessarily affect the interest of every holder of the securities of The American Tobacco Company and of every holder of the bonds of the Consolidated Tobacco Company. The undersigned have consented, at the request of the holders of a number of the Four Per Cent Gold Bonds of The American Tobacco Company, to act as a Committee for the protection of the interests of all holders of the said bonds, and of all holders of the outstanding Fifty-Year Four Per Cent Gold Bonds of the Consolidated Tobacco Company, who shall become parties to an agreement now in course of preparation, to be dated July 28th, 1911.

Holders of the said bonds are requested to deposit the same with the Guaranty Trust Company of New York, 28 Nassau Street, New York City, the depositary to be named in said agreement, which will issure transferable certificates of deposit therefor. All registered bonds must be properly indorsed in blank.

The Committee believes that the interests both of the holders of the Four Per Cent Bonds of The American Tobacco Company and of the Four Per Cent Gold Bonds of the Consolidated Tobacco Company demand that measures be promptly taken for their protection. The decision of the Supreme Court indicates that the proceedings must be completed and their purposes substantially accomplished within six months. Immediate action is therefore absolutely necessary, and the Committee requests that the said bonds be deposited at once. Deposits will be received up to and including the 28TH DAY OF AUGUST, 1911.

Copies of the deposit agreement may be had on and after July 31st, 1911, from the GUARANTY TRUST COMPANY, or from the Secretary of the Committee. Forty-Year Six Per Cent Gold Bonds

To the Holders of the Forty-Year Six Per Cent Gold Bonds of THE AMERICAN TOBACCO COMPANY.

In the recent decision of the Supreme Court of the United States in the action brought by the United States of America against The American Tobacco Company and others, directions were given that proceedings be had for the purpose of ascertaining and determining upon some plan or method of dissolving the combination and of recreating, out of the elements now composing it, a new condition which shall be honestly in harmony with and not repugnant to the law, without unnecessary injury to the public or the rights of private property, and at the request of the holders of a large amount of the Forty-Year Six Per Cent Gold Bonds of The American Tobacco Company, issued under and secured by the deed of trust dated October 20, 1904, under which the Guaranty Trust Company of New York is the Successor Trustee, the undersigned have consented to act as a committee for the protection of the interests of all of the holders of said bonds who shall become parties to an agreement now in course of preparation to be dated July 28, 1911.

NEW YORK MART PRICES GIVE WAY

Many Incidents Influence Trading, Causing a Bearish Tendency.

OUTLOOK SEEMS BETTER.

Decrease in Idle Freight Cars and Increase in Steel Output Leads to Assumption.

[NEW YORK TIMES FINANCIAL LEADER.]

New York, July 30.—[Special.]—A number of events of much interest to the financial community were crowded into last week, but the influence which they exerted upon the securities market was tempered by the fact that, to some extent, the developments were conflicting and because of the further fact that interest in the securities market had been limited.

This condition is not unusual at this season, but undoubtedly there is a sufficient element of uncertainty in the final outcome of some of the matters presented to the attention of the financial community last week to cause hesitation in entering upon fresh market commitments.

Prices yielded but only stubbornly and on no day did the average recessions in the active railroad and industrial issues show more than a fractional change.

Factors Influencing Market.

It is only necessary to name the incidents which commanded attention to suggest the variety of the week's factors and to explain the uncertainty which was felt regarding their net effect. These developments included the decision of the interstate commerce commission on the long and short haul cases ordering a reduction in rates; the quarterly report of the steel corporation, showing improvement over the previous month, but earnings much below those reported a year ago; further disquiet over the Moroccan situation; the decision by a committee of congress to approve an investigation of the so-called "money trust"; further consideration by congress of the tariff revision bills; and, toward the close of the week, increased demand for money.

The decline in the cotton market continued to the accompaniment of reports of serious losses by some speculators in that market and of more or less selling of securities to protect weakened cotton market positions. The grain markets, too, supplied their quota of elements making for uncertainty in the shape of reports of damage to wheat in the northwest, although the crop news of the week as a whole was favorable.

Dealings Unusually Light.

Confronted with this variety of factors, the market displayed irregularity on most days of the week, with the balance of the daily movement falling on the side of declines. On most days and in most stocks the dealings were light, and this was true of bonds as well as of stocks.

Of the bond market as a whole, just now it can be said that the demand is uneven, with a fair amount of purchasing in some departments, while in others conditions are extremely dull.

Taken in conjunction with the larger demand reported for money, the decrease in idle cars reported at the close of the week and the increased activity of many steel mills, as well as an increase in bank clearings, seemingly indicate an expansion in business, but, on the other hand, only a moderate improvement is recorded in the usual reviews of general trade. Idle freight cars, however, do not go into service except when merchandise is offered for shipment, nor are the steel mills of the country at present increasing their output except in response to increased orders from consumers.

There is reason, therefore, for the assumption that the business of the country is already beginning to feel the favorable effect of the approach of harvest time, even though the highest hopes of the year may not now be fully realized.

IN FOREIGN STOCK MARKETS.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, July 30.—Settlement on the stock exchange last week showed the existence of weak speculative accounts for a rise which in some instances resulted in failure. One unfortunate bull on about £40,000 of British railway stock was forced to close down at a few hours' notice. This weeding out process is likely to prepare the way for a rise when the markets get rid of the incubus of political anxieties. Money continues abundant, though continental bills have been coming to London, and, as Sir Felix Schuster intimated in his speech, leading bankers are expecting a decided demand from the continent later whatever the political development may be.

Firmness in Berlin.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

BERLIN, July 30.—Although Germany was the political storm center last week, the Berlin, Frankfort, and Hamburg boerses maintained surprisingly firm positions, compared with the panicky conditions which prevailed in London and Paris. There was, of course, a limit to operations due to the present uncertainty as well as the approach of the monthly settlement, but considering the gravity of the international situation, the German stock exchanges weathered the ordeal well. Declines were the rule early and during the middle of the week, but Asquith's speech in the English house of commons perceptibly relieved the surcharged atmosphere. The week closed amid fair-

Prices Low in Paris.

PARIS, July 30.—The Moroccan incident and Germany's attitude kept prices at the lowest level last week; business was practically at a standstill.

WILL ASK MORGAN ABOUT STEEL DEAL

Committee Wants His Own Story of Absorption of Tennessee Concern.

SCHWAB TO BE CALLED.

Light Sought on Prices and Trust's Power in Steadying Them.

New York, July 30.—It was made known tonight that the house of representatives committee of inquiry into the United States Steel corporation is now desirous of hearing personally from J. Pierpont Morgan with regard to the absorption of the Tennessee Coal and Iron company by the steel corporation in 1907.

That a subpoena will be issued within a few days for Charles M. Schwab, former president of the United States Steel corporation, also was revealed. Mr. Schwab has just returned from Europe.

Want to Hear Morgan's Own Story.

Lewis Case Ledyard, attorney for Oliver Payne, who first urged that Mr. Morgan be called in to suggest the Tennessee purchase by the steel trust, strongly defended Mr. Morgan before the committee yesterday and denounced intimations that a conspiracy existed.

"The best man to defend J. Pierpont Morgan for his part in the Tennessee Coal and Iron transaction," said Chairman Stanley today, "is Mr. Morgan himself. I sincerely hope Mr. Morgan's engagements in Europe will not deter him from appearing before this committee ere the investigation is concluded. Mr. Morgan's own story of that transaction and the momentous events at the time of that financial panic and the effect of the Steel stock transfer in the midst of it, are certain to be of great value."

That Morgan will be subpoenaed to appear when he does return there seems little doubt.

Will Ask Schwab About Prices.

Mr. Schwab will be examined particularly about steel prices and the Steel corporation's power in steadying the market prices of steel products throughout the country.

Antimony.

New York, July 30.—ANTIMONY—Quiet; rather unsettled; 8.50c for Cooksons; 7.75@8.25c for Halletts, and 7.20@7.40c for ordinary brands. London, £29 for Halletts and £29 for ordinary brands.

SOUTHWEST CORNER OF CLARK-ST. TEL. CENTRAL 3516.

I APPRECIATE ACCOUNTS OF HONORABLE people [men employed or in business, ladies with allowances from their husbands or income from other sources], who, while not in a position to borrow money from a bank, realize that exorbitant interest charged by professional money lenders is high and extortionate. I am connected with the Indiana Loan, Credit, and Trust Company of Chicago, co-partners, 4303 Grand-blvd., and, having private means of my own, I am willing to loan money with or without security and at a consideration but a trifle above bank rates, and never more than the interest legalized by the states of Massachusetts and Rhode Island, the precise rate being determined by the amount loaned and risk assumed. My location [15 minutes from loop district via South Side Elevated] assures a privacy not possible to those who deal with brokers in downtown office buildings, where lenders congregate. Always best to telephone Drexel 54 for private appointment. Ask for MR. S.

MONEY FOR SALARIED PEOPLE — IF YOU hold a permanent salaried position we will loan you any reasonable sum from $10 upward WITHOUT security or knowledge of employer or friends. Our rates are LOW, payments easy. REBATE IF paid before due. QUICK SERVICE; long time if desired; no red tape; no extra charge; nothing taken out of loan in advance. Office hours 9 a. m. to 6 p. m. Maj. Gen. Young Praises Conduct of Soldiers; Says, "Not a Complaint Was Made."

With the lowering of the camp flag last night the military tournament at Grant park came to an end. The soldiers will begin breaking camp this afternoon—the regulars to go back to their work and the members of the national guard to their homes.

The Fifteenth cavalry and the Twenty-seventh infantry will start back to Fort Sheridan this afternoon. Tomorrow the U. S. marines will return east to prepare for duty on the new battleship Utah.

From a point of attendance the tournament was much more successful than that of last year. The attendance for the week is estimated at not less than a half million, said to be one of the best records ever set by an event of the kind. Two days of bad weather did much to decrease the totals.

Plan Next Year's Event.

The success of the tournament is considered to have assured its repetition next year. While the exact financial returns are still in the hands of the auditing committee, it was said last night by John R. Young, manager of the tournament, that they would undoubtedly cover expenses, and perhaps leave a slight surplus. If there is a surplus, the plan is to divide it among the different national guard organizations which participated.

The attendance yesterday afternoon and night was estimated at 100,000. Every military organization at the encampment took part in the program, making one of the best entertainments of the week. At night the Chicago police drill company gave an exhibition of zouave maneuvers which compared well with similar work of the regular soldiers.

Gen. Young Praises Troops.

Maj. Gen. Edward C. Young was warm in his praise of the conduct of the troops.

"They have done splendid work every day," he said. "I haven't had a complaint of the conduct of any of the men, and I don't believe that there has been a serious case of misbehavior during the whole tournament. When you consider that for the regulars this is in the nature of a vacation, and that they are inclined, therefore, to let loose a little, it is remarkable. I hope that the tournament will be made an annual affair."

Following the afternoon program Mr. and Mrs. Julius Sewill gave a dinner at the Chicago Yacht club to Maj. Gen. Young and Mrs. Young, Maj. Gen. Biddle and Mrs. Biddle, and Mr. and Mrs. John R. Young.

SUBWAY DIRT FLIES TODAY.

Work to Begin on New Underground and Elevated Lines in New York.

New York, July 30.—After having listened for months to controversial negotiations over new transit lines, the city will celebrate tomorrow the first actual digging according to the plans for new subway and elevated lines which, when completed, will add about forty-six miles of underground railways and forty-two miles of overhead lines to the transit facilities of the greater city.

1,500 HUNGARIANS IN DANCE

Whirl to Rhythm of National Csarda at Big Picnic.

BEGIN ON AMERICAN AIRS.

Musicians, Encored Endlessly, Lay Down Their Instruments.

Fifteen hundred Hungarians took part in a picnic yesterday afternoon in Beyer's park, California avenue and Irving Park boulevard, for the benefit of the Hungarian Woman's home, 640 Garfield avenue.

It was an imported festival from beginning to end—the kind of festivals which the fifteen hundred used to hold after harvest in Hungary, with dancing in the open air and the music of a wandering gypsy orchestra. Except for the fact that the orchestra occasionally wandered into an American air, the picnickers might have been in their native fields.

Turn to Dance of Hungary.

This, though, happened only at the beginning of the program. Later the orchestra moved from the uncertainties of American two steps into the rhythm of the csardas, the Hungarian national dance. It is a dance full of action, of whirls, of wild happiness, and the fifteen hundred danced it with all the joy of their homesick hearts.

When the orchestra finished it was only to be driven into an encore, and another, and another, until at last the musicians laid down their instruments and refused to play any more. The dancers sighed disappointedly and returned to their seats, whereupon the orchestra relented long enough to put on a little surprise.

Twenty Young Women Dance.

It consisted of a dance by ten children in Hungarian costume—the low white bodices and vari-colored skirts—made familiar by Marsovians of the "Merry Widow." They were followed by twenty young women in an absolutely extemporaneous exhibition of the way the national dance can be done when the dancers are wholly interested.

Fifteen minutes of it would have convinced the average man that America's great need is not a national air but a national dance—something like the csardas.

John Pelenyi, vice consul at Chicago for Austria-Hungary, assisted Emil Felegi, the master of ceremonies.

BOY ELECTRICIAN MAY DIE AS RESULT OF CLIMB ON POLE.

Tries to Fix Light, Is Thrown Off, and Fractures Skull—Companions Are Burned on Hands by Current.

Because he had worked for a short time as an electrician's apprentice, Albert Pehrson, 1861 Cleveland avenue, thought he could fix a defective arc light in front of his residence. As a result of his attempt he is lying at Alexian Brothers' hospital, suffering probably fatal injuries.

Pehrson, who is only 16 years old, climbed the light pole. He was followed up by August Latz and George Eichelberg, who live next door to him. As soon as he touched the wires the light exploded, throwing Pehrson to the ground. The other boys were burned on their hands in their scramble down the pole.

At the hospital it was found that Pehrson's skull had been fractured and at an early hour this morning it was stated that his condition was critical.
